SQUIRE A RIPPER.

Big Schemes on the Program for This Winter.

Toledo's Leading Republican Citizen

Aspires to be the Quay of Ohio Politics.

City Governments To Be Turned Over to Him.

Every Democrat Who Can Be Legislated Out of Office Will Have to Walk the Plank as Soon as the Hungry Gang Get Back Into Official Position.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—(Special)—The present city government is to be ripped wide open on the spoils system. That is the kind of "federal" plan the republicans propose to give Columbus.

The bill by which this result is to be accomplished as soon as the legislature meets is already in course of preparation in the office of George K. Nash.

In the first place it will provide for a "board of control" to take the place of the present organization.

With some slight modifications the body will be clothed with the same authority as is held by the old. The board will consist of four members, three republicans and one democrat.

Certain minor powers will be given the city council to appease that aggrieved body. It will be permitted to elect the city auditor, and to fill the new office, that of city treasurer, which is to be created.

It would be unsafe, it is claimed, to place power in the hands of Mayor Karb, he being a democrat.

The board of control will therefore be made temporary, to give way to the federal plan in case the republicans elect the next chief magistrate of the city, which they think they will have no trouble in doing with the machinery which the temporary board will place in their hands. If this should fail the legislature, if republican, could make the board permanent.

As yet there is a little obstacle in the path of carrying out the plan of reorganization.

Who is to appoint the board? The authority cannot be given a democratic mayor. It might be placed in the hands of the probate judge, but that would look rather far-fetched to have a county officer make appointments for the city.

The chief question then is, will McKinley consent to take a hand in local politics and consent to have the bill passed giving him the power to appoint the members of the Columbus board of control?

It is understood that he is averse to meddling in municipal matters, but so far no opportunity has been had to sound him on this particular case. He has been absent in New York since the election, and Mr. Nash is anxiously awaiting his return to Ohio.

If, when the matter is brought to the attention of the governor-elect, he should refuse to lend himself to a scheme of wholesale reorganization, which has no other object than the distribution of spoils, the present bill will have to be materially modified.

Every city of importance in the state, in which the republicans are not already entrenched in power, will be reorganized. This is one of the schemes of Squire, of Toledo, who aspires to be the Quay of Ohio politics. Mr. Squire was yesterday closeted with McKinley at his hotel in New York, where it is said he went to sound the governor-elect on his ideas of municipal legislation.

THE MINERS' CONGRESS.

Strong Resolutions in Favor of Free Coinage.

Deliberations of the Delegates Now Assembled in Denver to Discuss Monetary Questions.

Denver, Col., Nov. 21.—Judge Searles called the mining congress together yesterday. R. C. Powers, of Arizona, was the first speaker. He urged the congress to fight out the battle for free silver to the bitter end. Prof. Holden, of Ohio, James F. Brown, of Aspen, Cal., and Judge Morse, of Denver, also spoke.

The committee on resolutions sent the following report to the congress:

"Resolved, That the first national mining congress is unalterably in favor of the principle of bi-metallism as approved by Jefferson and Hamilton, enacted into law by congress in 1793, and accepted by the country for all public and private business for the first 80 years of our country's history.

"That we believe gold and silver, not one to the exclusion of the other, are the money metals of the constitution; that we are opposed to any law which treats silver as a commodity; that we believe that gold and silver should have by law equal rights, uses and monetary purposes, and to that end we demand of the congress of the United States the enactment of a law by which silver shall be coined free in all the mines, equally with gold, and to have with it full and unrestricted monetary power, and that the coinage be in the ratio of sixteen and one, and when the coinage is represented by treasury notes each dollar shall represent 412 1-2 grains of standard silver or 25.8 grains of gold."

The committee also resolved that their senators and representatives in congress are requested to take, without delay, such steps as shall be necessary to ascertain why the treasury department refuses to obey the statutory requirements providing that the coin paid for duties on imported goods shall be set apart as a special fund, and shall be applied, first to the payment in coin of the interest on the bonds and notes of the United States; second, to the purchase or payment of the United States debt.

Millions of dollars of duties on imported goods have been paid into the national treasury since 1878, in silver coin and silver certificates, not one cent of which has been by any secretary of the treasury, at any time, devoted to the first and second objects hereinbefore specified.

THEY STOLE HIS MONEY.

A Feeble Minded Youth in the Hands of Sharpers.

South Waterboro, Me., Nov. 21.—Chester B. Roberts, a feeble minded youth, a native of this village, recently inherited $10,000 from his father. A gang of sharpers got Roberts to draw the money from the bank and trust it to them for safe keeping, but no memorandum of the trust to be made.

Roberts disappeared with the gang and was traced to Lynn where he was found in the house of one of the sharpers Eight thousand dollars of the money has been recovered and suits to recover the balance will be begun by Roberts' mother.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

New York, Nov. 21.—E. H. Van Ingen & Co. have had Timothy F. O'Connell, of Chicago, committed to Ludlow street jail in default of $1,500 bail, on an order of Judge Fitzsimmons of the city court in an action to recover $1,222.30. The firm claim he secured goods from them on false representations. He had only paid $200 on the bill.

CAUGHT AT HIS TRICKS.

New York, Nov. 21.—John Konald, alias Howard, of the firm of Konald & Co., 160 West Randolph street, Chicago, has been arrested here on a dispatch from the chief of police of Chicago, charging him with obtaining on false representations about $10,000 worth of produce in the way of butter, eggs, cheese, etc., for sale in New York.

GRIFFIN'S BETRAYAL.

Circumstances Connected with the Lieutenant Governor Deal.

The Italian Hand of Foraker Seen Through It All.

Hamilton and Cuyahoga Join in a Combination to Down Griffin and Foraker Wields the Magic Wand—Joseph's Reason for the Treason.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—(Special)—Representative Griffin may or may not be aware of the combination which downed him in the republican state convention in Columbus, nor of Foraker's part in the deal, but it is an absolute fact just the same that Mr. Griffin would have been the republican candidate for lieutenant governor had Gov. Foraker but lived up to his promises, and not only in that instance was he basely betrayed in the house of his friends, but he will find that notwithstanding Foraker's pledges to the contrary, Hamilton county is solidly against him in his candidacy for the speakership.

The deal through which the Maumee statesman was downed at the convention in this city is one of great interest just now, as it shows most emphatically that Foraker was even then laying his plans to snatch the United States senatorship from John Sherman. A member of Cuyahoga's delegation of representatives is authority for the following facts anent the combine and its result:

"Cleveland had a candidate for state treasurer in William T. Cope, and Cincinnati had a friendly interest in the candidate for attorney-general in the person of J. K. Richards," said the Bee correspondent's informant. "Foraker was pledged to Griffin, but Richards had claims on Hamilton county's delegation that could not be ignored. Richards is a very strong man, and it was absolutely necessary for Foraker to make terms with him. It is but fair to say that Foraker was true to Griffin just as long as he could be, but he was obliged to break with either Richards or Griffin, and he chose what he considered the lesser of the two evils. Cope's friends formed an alliance offensive and defensive, with Richards' followers and decided to stand together first and last. Foraker, however, could not afford to openly go back on Griffin, so he negotiated this deal. Hamilton was to vote for Griffin on the first ballot, and, if there was no show for his election, also on the second, but after that they were to break away for Harris, and if you will recollect the circumstances that is exactly what Hamilton county did. Griffin felt angry and told me so at the haste shown by Hamilton county in breaking away from him."

"I fail to see, however, what the candidacy of Cope and Richards had to do with that of Griffin?"

"It is plain enough. Foraker tried to get Griffin on the ticket, but Richards and Cope's friends insisted that to load the ticket down with northern Ohio men was practically to kill it. McKinley lives far enough north to be classed as a northerner, and he, too, objected to putting so many from the northern part of the state on the ticket. Cuyahoga's vote was necessary to nominate Richards, and Cope needed the vote of the Hamilton county delegation, and so the deal was conceived, and executed at the proper time according to the program laid down. Richards and Cope are now both supporting Foraker against Sherman for the United States senatorship."

"Will the Cuyahoga delegation support Griffin for the speakership?"

"I personally favor Griffin before any one who is mentioned, but I am afraid he will not get many votes from Cuyahoga. He will get none from Hamilton county, for every man of them is pledged to J. F. McGrew, who, by the way, is a very good man, too. He is Foraker's favorite. The intimation that McGrew will at the final moment throw his strength for Griffin is some of Foraker's moonshine that he is dealing out so generously just now."

It would seem from the foregoing facts that the Maumee statesman is being flim-flammed all around.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

The Death of Senator Deane Discussed.

The Work of the Canvassing Board Will Continue Just as Though the Deceased Was Still Alive.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The news of Senator Deane's death caused much discussion among politicians here. It was stated by the attorney-general, however, that the event had no political effect. The board of canvassers in that senatorial district would continue to canvass the votes and declare who was elected.

If the board declares Deane elected there would be a special election to fill his place.

If not, Osborn, dem., will have the seat.

Even if Deane is declared elected the senate could, if it saw fit, declare him not a member on the ground of fraud and could give the seat to Osborn.

In fact, Mr. Deane's death makes no difference in the political proceedings except that it may render a special election necessary.

FORTY THOUSAND ARE OUT

Trouble Feared Among the French Strikers.

Troops Have Been Ordered to Sleep on Their Arms.

The Men Who Remained at Work, and Those Who Took Strikers' Places, Have Added Fuel to the Already Heated Feeling.

Paris, Nov. 21.—Advices received here this morning from Lens, near Arras, in the department of Pas-de-Calais, where from 36,000 to 40,000 miners are out on a strike, show that the situation is growing hourly most dangerously serious.

At a meeting of miners' delegates, to be held to-morrow, matters of the utmost importance to all concerned in the strike will be decided, and upon the decision to be arrived at then will possibly depend the question whether or not the Pas-de-Calais is to witness a series of bloody riots.

The strikers in that department have, it is understood, already received substantial sums of money from the sympathizing coal miners in England, and it is not denied that the workers of the dangerous elements in French politics, of the advanced socialists and extreme radical, have since the strike commenced on Monday last been fanning the flames of discontent to the utmost. These agitators have used the strike as a lever to work against the government, and in this fact lies the danger of the situation.

The government, being well informed as to all that transpires, has steadily, without attracting the amount of attention which would have enraged the strikers, reinforced the troops scattered about the Pas-de-Calais, and the perfect, M. Alapetite, has, in consultation with the military commanders, taken steps to promptly concentrate comparatively large bodies of troops at all the threatened points in the shortest possible time.

The miners are animated by a most bitter feeling against the men who have remained at work and against those who have taken the places of the strikers.

In fact threats are expressed that the strikers, supported by their friends and relatives, will on Monday next make a combined, simultaneous and determined attempt to drive the scabs away from the mines. Should these threats be carried out; should the strikers attempt any open violence, there may be considerable trouble and bloodshed.

The mines are already protected by small detachments of troops, and several collisions have already taken place between the soldiers protecting the workers and the strikers, who seemed determined to stop all work in the mines at any cost to themselves and to their families.

The government, desirous above all to maintain peace, has made several offers to legislate in favor of the strikers should the latter be able to prove the justness of their cause; but the government insists, as one of the conditions of this legislation, that the strikers must resume work and refrain from all acts of violence.

JOHN L. REPORTED SHOT.

He Probably Got It Over a Bar at 15 Cents A Glass.

NOT HIS FIGHT.

New York, Nov. 21.—Grover Cleveland authorizes the statement that he is taking no part in the contest for the speakership of the house; that he is as much the friend of each candidate as he is of any other; that he has never declared himself as favoring Mr. Mills more than Mr. Crisp, or Mr. Springer, or Mr. McMillian, and that he has not made and does not intend making any suggestions in respect to the organization of the house of representatives.

MURDERED FOR REVENGE.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 21.—W. D. Bracewell was murdered yesterday by D. W. Smith, at the latter's saw-mill in Laurens county. Smith has disappeared. It is said that the murder was committed out of revenge, Smith believing that Bracewell killed his father, who was murdered in a very mysterious manner some years ago.

NARROW ESCAPE.

A Passenger Car Plunges Over the Side of a High Viaduct.

Beunos Ayres, Nov. 21.—A passenger train on the Beunos Ayres & Ensenada railroad yesterday, was crossing a viaduct which carries the road over a deep gorge, when a carriage left the rails and dragged the others after it.

The whole train was derailed and two of the carriages plunged over the viaduct and fell to the ground below. The coupling pins broke and the other cars remained on the viaduct. There were quite a number of passengers on the two cars, but no one was killed. Eight persons were seriously injured.

HAVE JOINED THE JUNTA.

Fonseca's Men Fight Under the Red Ball.

The Dictator's Health Still Reported as Bad.

A Growing Feeling in Some Parts of Brazil Favorable to the Return of Dom Pedro the Land of His Fame.

London, Nov. 21.—There is one important item of news here this morning in regard to the troubles in Brazil. The Times' Santiago correspondent cables that Silveira Martins now "holds the key" to the situation in Brazil.

According to the same correspondent, Martins is a strong democrat and friendly to Dom Pedro.

From other sources the reported repulse of Da Fonseca's two gunboats and a torpedo boat seem to be confirmed, though the alleged details obtainable are conflicting to a great degree.

The insurgents, it is claimed, continue to receive reinforcements of men, money and munitions of war, and a Da Fonseca squadron in the Upper Uruguay river is said to have hauled down the flag of the United States of Brazil and to have hoisted in its place the white flag with a red ball center of the so-called Republic of the South.

This squadron is then said to have joined the insurgent forces and received with much enthusiasm amid the firing of guns, much cheering and entertainments of a festive nature.

Negtiations between the dictator and the revolutionists are said to have been broken off as the latter will not be content with anything less than his complete surrender.

On the other hand, the negotiations between the insurgents and the government of Uruguay are said to be progressing in a manner favorable to the cause of the junta.

The report circulated to the effect that Da Fonseca was "likely to die at any moment" seems to have been an exaggeration. The dictator has been a very sick man for months past. He is said to be suffering from a cancerous affliction, and it has been reported that the state of his health has been one of the factors in bringing about the present state of affairs.

It was explained, however, in the sensational dispatch referred to, that the news circulated might mean that the dictator was in danger of assassination.

Over ten days ago it was stated in these dispatches that according to advices received here from Brazil the dictator's friends had thought it advisable to take the strictest precautions to insure the safety of the marshal, as it is not infrequent in South American revolutions, that the assassin puts a speedy end to a political crisis.

It has even been added that the dictator wears night and day a shirt of mail made of the finest steel backed by a tough leather lining. But such reports are always circulated in political cases of this description.

The basis of all these sensational rumors seems to be the news forwarded to the United States in these dispatches early yesterday afternoon, that Da Fonseca was suffering from nervous prostration. That is a fact and out of it seems to have grown the more startling reports.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET.

A Meeting Called for Next Friday.

Sherman, Foraker and Foster to be Invited to Attend and Discuss the Question of Unseating Brice.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 21.—Judge King, chairman of the republican state central committee, last evening issued a call for a meeting of the committee to be held Friday evening, November 27, at the headquarters of the Lincoln League club, in Columbus, to take action regarding the commencement of proceedings to prevent Calvin S. Brice from being sworn in as United States senator from Ohio.

Aside from the committee invitations will be extended to prominent republicans, including Senator Sherman, ex-Gov. Foraker, and Secretary Foster, to attend the meeting.

"It is not intended," said Judge King, "to have any star chamber session or do anything underhanded. Whatever action is taken will be open and above board, and hence I desire and intend to invite prominent members of the republican party to meet with the committee in order that concerted action may be taken."

The Wrecked Schooner George Saved by the Sumner.

A Hopeless Hulk Picked Up in Lake Michigan.

Port Huron, Nov. 21.—The schooner George arrived here late yesterday afternoon in tow of the tug Sumner. Her foremast is broken off below the masthead, the mainmast at the deck, and the mizzen topmast is gone.

She is almost completely stripped of her canvas, and her decks are badly damaged by falling masts.

She will tow to Toledo and discharge her cargo and then go to Cleveland for repairs.

Wednesday night, about 30 miles above Point au Barques, she was struck by a sudden and terrific squall, and in less time than it takes to tell it she was denuded as above described.

She then floundered around in the tremendous seas until 1 o'clock Friday morning, when the tug Sumner reached her and managed to get a line fastened to her. The George is a vessel of nearly 800 tons register, is owned and sailed by Captain Miles B. Fox, and is insured.

Has the Finney Gone Down?

Buffalo, Nov. 21.—Nothing has yet been heard from the schooner Finney, which left Toledo last Saturday evening for Buffalo, wheat laden.

Captain Fitzgerald, of the Pueblo, which arrived yesterday, reports passing wreckage below Long Point painted blue.

It is said that the Finney's hatch covers and cabin front were painted that color.

It is thought that Captain Riordan would have telegraphed to his people here if the Finney were in distress near any port.

A message from Port Colborne says the Wenoma is there, with six feet of water in her hold. She broke away from the tug Wright last Tuesday.

Victims of the Storm.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Reports from lake ports show that the recent storms have been disastrous to lake shipping. The schooner Ellen Severlson made an attempt to run into Grand Haven for shelter. In doing so she struck the north pier, dismasting herself and went on the beach. She was bound for Ludington light, with a crew of three men. The prompt arrival of the life saving crew saved the men after several hours of hard work. The vessel is a total wreck. It was owned by Nicholson & Ludington. Loss, $6,000; no insurance.

The schooner E. G. Benedict, bound for Buffalo, struck the bar in trying to make Port Stanley, Ont., and went ashore east of the harbor. She now lies in about eight feet of water on a sandy bottom. The vessel is owned and commanded by Capt. Thomas Lucas, of Windsor. Capt. Wm. Berry of the life saving station and a volunteer crew saved all the crew this morning.

Too Much Weather.

Mackinaw City, Nov. 21.—The Grey Reef lightship left to-day for Cheboygan contrary to orders which had been delivered by the Dahlia. The keeper concluded that he had had enough of Grey's Reef during the last terrific gale. The Dahlia is now here to take the Simmons Reef and White Shoal lightships back to their stations.

Point Au Pelee Light Damaged.

Sandusky, Nov. 21.—The dummy light was damaged considerably during the blow the fore part of the week, the steel sheeting on the south side of the lighthouse being almost entirely torn away. The damage is now being repaired.

CAMPBELL INTERVIEWED.

He Talks Briefly on the Recent Election.

He Thinks That Harrison Will be Renominated and That McKinley Stands a Better Show Than Blaine.

Washington, Nov. 21. — Governor Campbell has said to a reporter who asked him if he had been confident of reelection: "Yes, but an examination of the returns shows that one of our calculations was incorrect. We had reckoned that such Farmers' Alliance strength as existed in the State would come from republican ranks more strongly than democratic. In this we were mistaken. Further than this, we underestimated the size of the stay-at-home vote."

In discussing national politics he said: "I can only speak concerning the situation in my State, Ohio. There the democrats are divided into two factions, the larger being in favor of Grover Cleveland and the smaller being for Hill, Boies, Russell, and other less important candidates."

When asked whom the republicans favored, he said he thought they preferred Harrison. "You see," he continued, "the delegates must either renominate Harrison, according to the republican second-term tradition, or furnish the people with some satisfactory reasons for not doing so. Now no one can deny that President Harrison's administration has been honest and efficient, and dishonesty or incapacity are the two main indictments which count much against renomination. As for Mr. Blaine, in spite of his immense personal popularity, I think his chances of securing the nomination are small, probably not so good as those of Governor McKinley."

EX-GOV. HOADLEY ILL.

Pneumonia was Threatened but the Danger Point has been Passed.

New York, Nov. 21.—Ex-Gov. Hoadley, of Ohio, has been confined by illness for the past two weeks to his residence in this city.

Pneumonia was threatened at one time but the danger is now believed to be past and his physicians think he will be out in a few days.

NOT SURPRISING.

Columbus, O., Nov. 21.—Secretary Probst, of the state board of health, was notified yesterday of a case of smallpox at Glendale, Hamilton county. Glendale is a suburb of Cincinnati, and quite thickly populated, with all the chances in favor of the disease spreading among the inhabitants.

A BID FOR VOTES.

London, Nov. 21.—The liberal leaders have decided to incorporate in the platform approved at the Newcastle conference an English tenants' rights bill. This decision is one of the most important steps that the responsible chiefs of the party have ever taken.

PARDON GRANTED.

Columbus, O., Nov. 21.—Gov. Campbell has granted a pardon to Mrs. Martha J. Grady, who was serving a sentence of one year in the penitentiary for bigamy.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Exciting Scenes in the Famous Old Baily.

The French Colonel with His Many Aliases

Convicted of Blackmailing People in High Life.

A Remarkable Story Told to the Court.

Death Was the Penalty for Not Complying with His Requests, and Dynamite Was the Agency Through Which it Was to be Brought About.

London, Nov. 21.—There has ended, at the Old Bailey, one of the most remarkable trials in the history of British jurisprudence. It is the trial, on the charge of blackmail, of a mysterious individual known as the "French Colonel," as "Le Grande," as "Briscony Grant," as "Captain Anderson," and as "Charles Grant."

This distinguished criminal's real name is not known; he says he is a Dane but the police believe him to be a well-known American criminal who has "worked" both the United States and Europe for years past and who has made large sums of money by his operations as a "knight of industry." There are a number of charges piled up against the "French colonel," but the which he is placed on trial for is that of threatening to murder the Baroness Bolsoper, who resides in one of the most aristocratic quarters of London, No. 13 Grosvenor Place, and with also threatening to murder Lady Jessel, the widow of the late master of the Rolls.

In the opening remarks of counsel for the prosecution it was stated that the prisoner in addition to having threatened to murder Baroness Balsoper and Lady Jessel, had also threatened a similar fate to a number of other ladies of title. It was also declared that in June last the French colonel completed a sentence of two years' hard labor for blackmailing a doctor, and that he then went to live in the Kennington Road, from which place, it is claimed, he sent out a number of letters addressed to ladies of wealth and position demanding money and making the most horrible threats as to what he would do unless his demands were complied with.

Counsel, continuing, said that the daughter of the "French colonel's" landlady had deposed at the preliminary examinations at Westminster police court, to seeing the drafts of some of these threatening communications. This young lady, it was explained, had found these drafts in a room which the prisoner occupied, an apartment which it was her duty to place in order and otherwise attend to.

It was also said that, in conversation with a detective the prisoner had referred to this evidence and had asked that police officer what punishment he thought the "French colonel," was likely to receive for his operations.

Counsel also said that a case, in which the prisoner had threatened an old lady, Mrs. Baldock, residing at No. 8 Grosvenor Place, and belonging to a wealthy and highly respected family, was only concluded, in its preliminary details, against the prisoner some short time ago.

Upon that occasion, it was explained to the jury, the police produced a quantity of gun powder and an infernal machine, consisting of an arrangement of powerful springs in a cigar box, which had been found in previous lodgings which the "French colonel" had occupied at Malden.

Other and similar testimony having been furnished by counsel for the prosecution, Lady Jessel was called to the witness stand and deposed that, during the afternoon of July 17 last, she received the following letter:

"To Lady Jessel, 7 Grosvenor Place—Madame: Take notice, if you do not pay me the sum of five hundred pounds within ten days I will dash your brains out by a means that may prove highly fatal to those surrounding you. Be not misguided by your advisers who may, perhaps, tell you to apply to the police for protection—there is no other protection for you than to pay the above sum.

"Hell itself will not protect you from my hand, far less the English detectives, who could not even find the man who murdered seven or eight women in the open streets of Whitechapel.

"If you look for protection from them, then you might as well look for protection from your lap dog.

"You understand, I must have the sum, or I must perish in the attempt. I have addressed a similar letter to ten persons. If you do not pay up I shall dash you to atoms and you will then serve the others as an example and they will see that I mean what I say. They will naturally pay such a paltry sum rather than expose themselves to certain destruction.

"Do not believe, however, that I would kill you with a revolver. No, madam, that would be a madman's work. I shall use a thin cake of dynamite or fulminate of silver, which could easily be placed under a doormat upon which you have to step, or under the cushion of your seat in church, so that immediately the weight of your body comes on it it would explode and dash you to atoms.

"If you comply with my demands then insert a reply in the Daily Telegraph."

Lady Jessel also said that on the advice of her friends she sent a note to Scotland Yard police headquarters asking that a detective be detailed to inquire into the matter and that steps be taken to protect her from the dangerous blackmailer who was threatening her. Accordingly a detective from the criminal investigation department was sent to her house and the letter and entire matter was placed in his hands.

Harry Pearce, who described himself as a butler and as being in the employ of the Baroness Balsoper, of No. 13 Grosvenor Place, said that during the afternoon of July 17 last a letter written in red ink arrived by post addressed to the baroness. Continuing, the butler said he saw the baroness open this missive; that she turned deadly pale upon reading it, and that she sank, half-fainting, into a chair. Later on the butler deposed, the baroness handed him back the letter and instructed him to take it to the police and ask them to arrest the rascal and to send some policemen to protect her.

The prim, slow, methodical manner in which the highly respectable butler gave his testimony created considerable amusement in court. Butler Pearce was a study in himself and there was quite a feeling of relief, though also of regret when he marched, in the most dignified manner, from the witness stand to his seat in the court room.

The letter to the Baroness Balsoper, it was afterwards shown, was in terms somewhat similar to those used in addressing Lady Jessel. The baroness was directed by the "French Colonel" to place "No. 4" against her advertisement, and she was warned if she did not send the money there was "dynamite or a thousand other ways by which I may send you into eternity."

Concluding, this startling letter read: "I hope you will consider my request. It may be that one day I may be able to pay it back to you, only I must have it now. If you knew who I am I feel sure that you would pity me, to see that I am to come to an act like this, which is highly criminal and void of all human feeling. I knew you once. But enough."

At this point Judge Hawkins and the jury paid particular attention to the testimony introduced with the view of identifying the writing of the prisoner and comparing it with that of the blackmailing letters.

After the testimony had been taken the "French colonel" fainted in the dock. When revived he engaged in a furious fight with the police around him.

A dozen policemen, assisted by a number of prison wardens, seemed unable to restrain him.

There was a tremendous sensation in the court room; a number of ladies fainted, others screamed horribly. Judge Hawkins was unable for a long time to restore order. Finally the jury found the prisoner guilty on both charges.

BIG LINE OF STORES.

Elaborate System of Reciprocity for Farmers.

A Gigantic Scheme of the Dakota Alliance.

Trading to be Done on a Cash Basis, But an Interchange of Products Will Be Allowed—How it Will Be Worked.

Aberdeen, S. D., Nov. 21.—George G. Crose, the South Dakota alliance leader, announces that the alliance of this state is about to join many others in a sort of joint co-operative interstate reciprocity scheme.

He says the business departments of the alliance in 20 or more states have united with leading business men of New York city and formed a company similar in its plan of operation to the celebrated Rochdale system in England and the Zion co-operative stores in Utah.

The organization has large means at its command. It is claimed the advantages to the alliance are tenfold at least. It will have the business ability and experience of some of the shrewdest men in the nation at its back, while there will, apparently, be plenty of capital to meet any emergency which may arise and to push the business as circumstances permit. In return the alliance will give the organization its patronage.

"It is the aim of this new organization," said Mr. Crose, "to buy out a merchant in every trade center of importance, stock him with everything he wants in the line of general every-day goods demanded by the farmers, and make him local manager of the concern. We have options from business men in 41 towns in South Dakota, and the work is still being vigorously pushed along.

"The only transfer to date, however, has been made in Aberdeen, J. B. Moore, a dealer in furniture, having contracted with the company to put in his stock and become manager of the local store.

The Rochdale System Adopted.

"We expect to follow the Rochdale system almost to the letter. It is no new thing, no untried experiment. It has been in successful operation in England for a period of 40 years or more. The net profits of the business, by its provisions, are divided between those who put in the cash capital and the members of the association who extend their patronage, the manager getting a division, of course, for his labor and responsibility. These stores will sell to everybody alike and will make no discrimination. They will meet all honorable competition, but will not cut legitimate and fair prices. They are not established to demoralize trade, but to promote it. The farmer members of the association invest nothing, and consequently have everything to gain and nothing to lose. The business will be conducted strictly on business principles. The company agrees to pay cash for all farm products, and customers must likewise pay when they buy. It is to be a cash business all around.

"This stupendous deal has been on foot for a year, and the first transfer was made in Georgia in August last. Co-operative stores are now in successful operation in seven different states, and four sets of men are engaged at different points in making transfers, one being in this state at the present time. The alliance interests of each state in this enterprise are looked after and protected by some leading alliance man called trade commissioner, and R. B. Bentley, of this city, has been given this responsible position in South Dakota. In Minnesota and North Dakota the work is progressing nearly as well as here. In southern Minnesota we have 25 options on desirable plants in as many flourishing towns, and in a week hence we will have representatives on the ground invoicing stocks and making transfers."

Asked about the future of the Alliance Purchasing company, of which he is president, Mr. Crose said it would no longer handle machinery, coal, etc., as in the past. All this business will be turned over to the new company. The Alliance company will continue to exist, however, but its whole energy will be devoted to the interchange of products for the farmers of the east and west and north and south.

"We anticipate great results," said he, "along this line, though the full details are hardly ready for publication. We are already sending flour to Georgia and other southern states. Many of these 22 states in which we are at work are not adapted to wheat raising. By the plan proposed they will be enabled to get our No. 1 hard in exchange for something we do not grow. All our stores will want flour and they will turn to the northwest for it. When this arrangement becomes fully perfected its advantages will be permanent and great. We already have the producers, and this will increase mightily our army of consumers. In time we hope to be able to completely dodge the 'big four.'"

IS FLOWER IN THE FIELD?

Talk of the Governor-Elect for President.

Many People Think Hill Will Make a Strong Fight.

Reasons Given Why a Flower Boom Would be the Proper Thing to Start at This Season of the Campaign.

New York, Nov. 21.—Seven years ago, two New York democrats were candidates for the nomination for president of the United States. One was Grover Cleveland. The other was Roswell P. Flower. One was governor of the state. The other held no office. The governor won.

Next year New York will almost surely contain two aspirants for the nomination. One will then be a United States senator. The other will hold no office. But these two do not compromise the possibilities. There may be a third, and the third will then be governor.

Ever since Roswell P. Flower carried the Empire State by a majority which approaches and may reach 50,000, there has been much talk of this kind. It has come chiefly from prudent democrats who are not "on the inside" of party or factional management. They reason in this way:

First—The electoral vote of New York is essential to democratic success.

Second—The machine, which comprises the men who do the work before both conventions and elections, is against Cleveland. It is not probable at the present time that he will secure the New York delegation. The nomination of any New York man by other states contrary to New York's wishes would be a fatal error.

Third—The workers are for Gov. Hill. Everything indicates that he can defeat Mr. Cleveland in an effort to secure this state's delegation. But Gov Hill is not so popular with the great majority of democrats in or out of New York. His nomination, after a contest with the ex-president, would estrange thousands of democrats who believe that Mr. Cleveland better represents the chief issue of the party. The rancor thus created might defeat Gov. Hill at the polls.

Fourth—There remains one man upon whom both factions united so effectively this very month that he carried the state by an overwhelming majority. He could do so even more easily as a candidate for president. He is sound on all questions. He is honest. He is rich. He is one of the people. And he is a very recent winner.

Fifth—The chief object of the democratic party is to nominate a man whose election would be practically assured. In view of the facts noted, which of the three men named is most available? Will not the sober sense of the national convention insist upon the elimination of factional strife in this state by the nomination of Gov. Flower?

Whether there really exists sufficient basis for each of the statements thus given is a matter of opinion. The partisans of both Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Hill say no, and say it emphatically. But the fact remains that many democrats who do not hold the confidence of the intimate friends of either are giving serious heed to the position as outlined above, accurately or not.

Some even go so far as to assert that there is but one possible obstacle, viz.:

Has Mr. Flower given any pledge to anybody that he will not be a candidate for the nomination?

It is impossible to obtain definite information on this point. Few believe that he has made such a pledge to the friends of Mr. Cleveland. Many believe that he has to the friends of Gov. Hill. Of course neither of the gentlemen most concerned nor any one who knows positively will say a word. Mr. Sheehan is mum. So is Mr. Murphy. So is Col. Lamont.

Only one of the real leaders has been quoted. That is Mr. Croker. On Monday the Philadelphia Press printed that "it was said" that he had spoken these words to an intimate friend:

"Mr. Flower will serve New York state as governor just one year, because on the 1st of January, 1893, he will resign, just as Grover Cleveland did, and for the same reason. If he lives until the 4th of March, 1893, he will, if we can accomplish it, take the oath of president of the United States."

Mr. Croker says he never said anything of the kind. When the times comes he will speak. At present all he can say or has said is that Tammany Hall will support the man who, in the judgment of the sachems, will be nominated. Personal preference will be considered less than ever before. Tammany's sole object is to be on the winning side. That is Mr. Croker's idea of wise politics at the present time.

Four obvious truths bear upon Mr. Flower's personal position.

First—No man has ever yet refused a nomination for the presidency except because of ill-health.

Second—Mr. Flower's health is excellent.

Third—He has been an active aspirant for the nomination.

Fourth—It is generally conceded that Gov. Hill's opposition would be the only possible barrier to Mr. Flower's acceptance.

That this is the exact situation in a nutshell. It is simple and readily understood.

The chief thing to be determined now is whether the impression of the "Flower men" that Gov. Hill will have the delegation is correct. To obtain definite information on this point. The members of the state committee have been interviewed.

DREADFUL SKIN DISEASE

Afflicts a Well-Known Merchant. Itching and Burning Terrible. Doctors and All Remedies Fail.

Tries Cuticura. Relieved by the First Application and Entirely Cured in Five Weeks.

About eighteen months ago a small speck appeared on my ankle; it resembled a fish scale; it became larger, and I consulted a physician who pronounced it psoriasis, or monied disease, because it resembled money. I applied an ointment, but it spread until at last it covered almost my entire body. My suffering was something terrible, burning and itching sensations continually until it became almost unendurable. I suffered tortures especially at night, and for two months I was compelled to sleep with gloves on. I became desperate. I would have given anything to be relieved of the itching sensation. I tried a number of remedies without any relief. I was requested to try CUTICURA; this I did, and to my great surprise I was relieved after the first application. I used the CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLENT according to directions for about four or five weeks when I was entirely cured. But what a relief it was to me after the suffering I went through. I cannot speak with too much favor for the "CUTICURA REMEDIES," and I would recommend it to all those suffering from the same disease that I have suffered. JOHN T. MAJOR WISSMANN IS ILL.

He Will Never Go Back to the African Wilds.

Generally Believed That the Reports of His Expedition Were Highly Colored by Berlin Papers.

Cairo, Nov. 21.—Baron Von Wissman, commissioner of German East Africa, who is lying ill here of pneumonia, the result of the severe trials encountered in his expedition to Kilima-Njaro, is reported to-day to be improving.

Major Wissmann states that on his recovery he will return to Germany and insist on his resignation as commissioner of German East Africa being accepted, and that no inducements will ever get him to return to East Africa again.

During this expedition Baron Von Wissmann had several severe fights with the natives, the German official newspapers always claiming easy victories for the force under his command; one report published in the Tageblatt, March 6 last, stating that after punishing the Kibosh tribe he captured 60,000 head of cattle and a large amount of ammunition and ivory.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind.

Distress After Eating

Sick Headache

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business, painting. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. DAIRY MAIDS' FESTIVAL.

One of the Prettiest Events of the Season.

A Most Successful Entertainment in Pythian Castle for the Benefit of the Church of Our Father.

For some weeks the ladies of the Church of Our Father have been hard at work preparing a unique entertainment for the friends of that church, the proceeds of which should go to the church funds. "The Dairy Maids' Festival" was the form the entertainment took, and the program was successfully carried out at Pythian Castle last night, from 8 o'clock until 11. Nearly 600 guests were received during the evening, the reception committee being:

Judge and Mrs. Lemmon, Rev. A. G. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Foster, Dr. and Mrs. Cravens, Mrs. Rosa L. Segur, Miss Louise Sizer, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Crowell, Mr. S. D. Dare, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Morgan, Gov. and Mrs. J. M. Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cone, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sprague, Capt. and Mrs. Kisinger, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Court, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cole, Mr. A. D. Pelton, Mr. James Melvin.

Every one was made to feel at home, and some time before the program was rendered the beautifully decorated hall was well filled, and the tables of fancy work, Jacob's ladder of prizes, etc., were being well patronized. In addition to the hand-painted milking pails and stools that were for sale there were Thanksgiving dinner cards, Christmas presents, and a variety of beautiful and useful articles. A lovely hand-painted chamois stand-spread and a picture were raffled for, late in the evening, Mrs. A. T. Kline becoming the fortunate possessor of the screen, and Miss Jennie Camp drawing the picture. Mrs. Edward Bissell, Mrs. Alvin Peter, and Mrs. Judge Harmon had charge of the sale of fancy articles. The decorated pails and stools were in charge of Mrs. H. P. Tobey, Mrs. O. C. Baker and Mrs. Frank W. Foster.

Supper was served to about four hundred people, the refreshment committee being: Mrs. A. D. Pelton, Mrs. A. J. Rummell, Mrs. A. H. Hathaway, Mrs. J. W. Hone, Mrs. L. Hartson, Mrs. L. Griswold, Mrs. Geo. P. Sanborn, Miss Nettie Morgan, Mrs. S. D. Dare, Miss Emma Law, Mrs. Dr. Ridenour, Mrs. R. S. Janney.

The Program.

At 8 o'clock Mrs. W. W. Ainsworth opened the program with a solo, "Five o'clock in the Morning." Mrs. Ainsworth was dressed in the costume of a dairymaid, plain-skirted gown, apron and cap, and her song charmed every one. It was:

The dew lay glittering o'er the grass,
  A mist lay over the brook,
At the earliest beam of the golden sun
  The swallow her nest forsook;
The snowy blooms of the Hawthorn tree
  Lay thickly the ground adorning,
The birds were singing in every bush,
  At five o'clock in the morning.

And Bessie, the milk maid, merrily sang,
  The meadows were fresh and fair,
And the breeze of morning kiss'd her brow,
  And play'd with her nut-brown hair;
But oft she turned and look'd around,
  As if the silence scorning,
'Twas time for the mower to whet his scythe,
  At five o'clock in the morning.

And over the meadows the mowers came,
  And merry their voices rang,
And one among them wended his way,
  To where the milk maid sang;
And as he lingered by her side
  Despite his comrades warning,
The old, old story was told again
  At five o'clock in the morning.

In response to continued applause Mrs. Ainsworth came forward and dropped a milkmaid's curtsy, and rendered the third verse of her song a second time. Mrs. Hattie Wheeler accompanied her upon the piano.

The second number of the program, the grand march of the dairy maids, was the feature of the evening. It was as pretty a performance as was ever seen in Toledo, and the credit for its success is largely due to Mrs. E. R. Wheeler, who has drilled the little maids. These were Grace Jennings, Maggie Richards, Mamie Breed, Josie Cunningham, Florence Golden, Sally Sherman, Mable Sanborn, Esther Harmon, Anna Ridenour, Blanch Bridenbaugh, Gertrude Rule, Florence Theuerkauff, Lucie Harmon, Ella Hardee, Florence Pelton, Emma Crowell, Lottie Bissell, Isabelle Wheeler, Bessie Werum, Lulu Humphrey, Florence Robinson, Elsie Dare, Helen Mills, Bessie Hyatt, Bessie Dare, Eleanor Mills, Alice Wheeler, Cora Belle Pelton, May Griswold, Urma Rummel, Gertrude Mills, Lida Camp.

Miss Norma Kisinger led the march, and it was a pretty sight to see the little maids file into the hall. All were dressed en costume, with underskirt of red or blue or yellow, overdresses and caps of white muslin, ornamented with bows of colors to match the skirts. Their feet were shod in bottines of like colors, or black slippers with ribbon bows. The taller maids headed the procession, which closed with little tots of 6 years, whose cunning steps and missteps were not the least charming part of the march. The figures given were very intricate and perfectly done, and the applause was long continued when the little maids' work was done. Each carried on one shoulder her milking pail or stool.

The next number was the dairy maids' minuet, performed by little Alice Wheeler and Master Eddie Sassaman. This, too, was perfectly rendered and enthusiastically received.

On one side of the hall hung a white curtain, having large round holes in it, the holes surrounded with sunflower petals. This was for the "Sunflowers in Melody," the next number of the program. The sunflowers were: Walter Bissell, Dana Court, Burt Sanborn, Lough Wheeler, Ed Camp, Orrie Sanborn, Harry Hoaglin, Robert Richards, Allen Jennings, John Bridenbaugh, Eugene Bridenbaugh, Hugh Pelton, Compton Lemmon. The flowers were completed by the thrusting of faces into the center of the petals, and the melody was "Mother Goose Rhymes," which the boys chorused to Mrs. Ainsworth's singing. Each rhyme was illustrated by some little boy or girl, and evoked laughter and applause.

The gypsy camp, in charge of Miss Norma Kisinger (Zora Mardillo) was well patronized. Her assistants were: Guitar, Paul Bordevo and Mr. Bodley; violin, Don Sancho Pedro; Bernardo, Mr. Campbell; mandolin, Foresto Schultz and Mr. Schultz; guitar, Matthew Maynello and Mr. May.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to social converse for the older people and dancing by the younger people. The entire entertainment was a pronounced success, and the ladies have been urged to repeat the performance.

NEW CHEMICAL WORKS

Located on Lower Summit Street by Dryfoos Bros., of Fremont.

Dryfoos Bros., of Fremont, have bought out the Mineral Paint works on lower Summit avenue, near the Manhattan mills, and have made arrangements to put up a great plant for the manufacture of chemicals.

One of the brothers has just returned from Germany, where he graduated with high honors, from a famous practical school of chemistry.

The building has been bought entire from Taylor & Co., and the ground upon which it stands has been leased for a term of five years. It is proposed to enlarge and improve the present building and to put in $25,000 worth of special machinery.

Operations will commence next week. The papers were signed and delivered yesterday, and Irving B. Hiett & Co. negotiated the deal. Messrs. Dryfoos are nephews of Mr. Stern, of Stern, Bloch & Co., of this city.

WHERE IS THE PANTHER?

Belief That Toledo's New Steamer is in Trouble.

She Passed the Soo with the Hadley a Week Ago, and Has Not Since Been Heard From.

Grave fears are entertained by the owners of the steamship Panther for her safety. A week ago to-day at 2 o'clock she passed through the Soo, together with the Hadley, and nothing has been seen or heard of her since. She was coal laden from Toledo to Duluth.

Mr. Leander Burdick, speaking with a Bee this morning, said: "It is a mystery to us. The Hadley arrived at Duluth all right, unloaded and reloaded, and is now on her way down, but nothing has been seen or heard of the Panther."

"Has any effort been made to locate her?"

"Oh, yes. We have been wiring all over, but without success. After leaving the Soo both she and the Hadley ran into a blinding snow storm, and it is barely possible she has gone to the north shore. It is a wild desolate country along the Canadian coast, and she could be ashore there without us hearing. Captian Hubbard is using every effort to locate her, and we are in hopes of hearing something from her to-day."

The Panther was one of the finest steamships on the lakes. She was built last year by James Davidson, of Bay City, and cost $125,000. She was owned by Messrs. Burdick, Hadley and Hubbard of this city.

FOR POLICE CLERK.

The Candidates Evidently Believe in the Maxim of the Early Bird.

The fight for the police clerkship will make a beautiful muss before the time for holding the republican city convention next spring. It has already opened up in the clerk's office, where both M. C. Fogarty and S. F Tanner are avowed candidates for the position.

Fogarty is the present clerk and Tanner is his deputy, and each are pulling against the other, and anything but harmony reigns.

Mr. Fogarty has suggested to his subordinate that it would be a good plan for him to resign and attend to his canvass, but the latter does not seem inclined to look at it in that light and still holds on.

OLD FORSYTH POST

Celebrates Its Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

In Fine Style—Delegation from Detroit Assist and Make a Presentation—A Good Program Well Rendered.

Forsyth Post celebrated its silver anniversary last night, and Memorial hall was crowded to suffocation, and many people were turned away unable to find standing room.

Twenty-five years ago Forsyth Post was organized with a charter of thirteen members, and from that day to the present time the post has stood united, unswerving in its loyalty to the cause it represents, and unsevered by adversity. During the time of the bitter political war against the G. A. R. posts, old Forsyth never flinched and came out scarred and seared, but whole and determined as ever.

Forsyth Post has instigated and accomplished much good in this community as well as all over the state.

Over 18 years ago this post instituted the fund that erected Memorial hall, of which Col. Henry S. Neubert was treasurer.

It also originated the movement that resulted in the building of that great charitable institution, the Soldiers' Orphan Home at Xenia, of which Gen. C. L. Young, one of the original thirteen, is superintendent.

At 4:30 yesterday afternoon a large delegation of Fairbanks Post of Detroit arrived and were conducted to the Toledo restaurant for supper, and from there to the hall.

At 7:30 Commander Wittich called the meeting to order, and introduced the chairman of the evening, Gen. P. S. Slevin.

Rev. H. M. Bacon invoked divine blessing, after which "America" was started. The audience took up the old familiar air, and the building fairly rang with the music.

Adjutant Applegate then read a very interesting report of the condition of the post. It showed a membership of over seven hundred.

This was followed by an address by Department Commander Warner, in which he spoke of the good service and the many benefits of the G. A. R. association of the ties of friendship formed when touching elbows on the battle field, that are made stronger by reason of that service, and the social relation and comradeship of the present organization.

He called attention to the increase in the ranks of the G. A. R. and especially of Forsyth post, and that he hoped to have the pleasure of presenting the banner to this post for the largest increase in membership.

The chairman announced a recitation by Miss Genevieve Carpenter. The selection was descriptive of battle, the glory of victory and the despair of defeat. The piece was beautifully rendered, and Miss Carpenter retired amid a perfect shower of flowers.

Mrs. Annie E. Howe, president of the W. R. C., read a very interesting report of this splendid association. It included a desire on the part of the W. R. C. to join hands with the G. A. R. in demanding that Decoration day be properly observed, that it be not a holiday or desecrated into a day of amusement instead of a day set aside to honor and pay a floral tribute to the memory of the dead soldier.

At this point Post Commander Patrick, of Fairbank post of Detroit, in a neat speech, presented Forsyth post with an elegant water set. A suitable response was made by Commander Wittich.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Irving recited a beautiful poem of the service of a Scotch regiment, and how the wounded on the battlefield located comrades behind the stocks of Andersonville prison by whistling the old call "Annie Laurie." Mrs. Irving did the whistling that would do credit to an expert, and received an ovation when she concluded.

Gen. A. V. Rice was unable to attend, and the chairman called on Hon. J. K. Hamilton, who made a few extemporaneous remarks full of interest and instruction.

The entertainment was concluded by a address by Hon. Charles Townsend. He related many interesting and pathetic incidents and humorous anecdotes of the war which were received with round after round of applause.

Letters of regret were received from Gen. A. V. Rice, Gen. Sherwood and Gen. Young.

Four numbers were cut off the program on account of the lateness of the hour.

HAVE THEY DISCRIMINATED?

Charges Preferred Against Local Lines

By the Board of Trade in the Matter of Free Cartage to Merchants —The Petition Will Be Filed Next Week.

Early next week Attorneys Thomas & Hiett will file a petition with the interstate commerce commission wherein charges are preferred by the Citizens' board of trade of Toledo against the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Michigan Central, Wabash, Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, and Pennsylvania railroad companies.

The petition shows that the complainant is an organization to protect the industries and trades of the city of Toledo, particularly to prevent unjust discrimination against the city by common carriers, and that the railroads are common carriers in the transportation of freight and passengers, giving the terminal point of these lines.

The petition alleges that these railroads, the defendants, have published schedules of rates of charges of transportation as required by the act to regulate commerce which do not include anything in the nature of terminal charges for cartage. Further points made are:

The merchants of Toledo purchase their goods largely in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other eastern markets, and sell goods throughout the states of Michigan, Ohio and Indiana at points upon the railroad lines of defendants and in competition with the merchants of said several Michigan cities, and their ability to maintain such competition is greatly affected by any variation or discrimination in the rates and charges for transportation of property over said railroads.

The rates and charges established by such defendants as transport property from said eastern markets to Toledo and Detroit are the same for each of said cities upon the same class of freights; the rates to both cities being 78 per cent. of the Chicago rate; and shipments of freight by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway company, and also by the continuous line established by the Pennsylvania company and the Michigan Railroad company from said eastern markets to Detroit pass through Toledo before reaching Detroit over the same line and in the same direction, the shorter being included in the longer distance.

The defendants while they openly charge and collect from shippers and consignees of freight in Toledo and said other cities the rates set forth by said published schedules, nevertheless discriminate in favor of the merchants of said other cities against the merchants of Toledo in this, to-wit:

They receive and deliver freight in Toledo at their several freight depots and warehouses and said Toledo merchants are obliged at great expense to provide cartage and all means of moving freight between their several business houses and said freight depots and warehouses, while said defendants at Detroit, Jackson, Lansing, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids, or such of said cities and at other cities which are stations upon their several lines of railroad, deliver or cause to be delivered at the business houses of consignees all such freight wholly or to a great extent without expense to such consignees, and said defendants also at such of said cities as are stations upon their several lines as aforesaid, except Toledo, in the same manner gather freight to be shipped from said cities over their several railroads, and receive the same at the business houses of the shippers and cart the same to their freight depots and warehouses largely or wholly without expense to shippers.

Complainant is informed and therefore alleges that the free cartage herein complained of, is carried on by means of contracts or arrangements between said defendants and draymen, cartage and truck companies in said cities whereby the same result is reached as would be the case if said defendants operated trucks and drays of their own to receive and deliver such freight. But complainant is unable to state the exact nature and details of such arrangements and prays that defendants may in their answers hereto, fully state all the points in Michigan where they, directly or indirectly, by means of their own or through others, furnish, cause to be furnished, or in any way participate in furnishing cartage as above stated, and that they fully and fairly disclose the contracts, arrangements and business methods by which the same is accomplished.

The discrimination complained of is practically a rebate and drawback from the published rates and charges for the transportation of freight to said cities other than Toledo, and gives to merchants and all other shippers and consigners in said cities an undue and unreasonable advantage, and subjects the merchants of Toledo to undue prejudice and disadvantage as follows:

It establishes in practice a less rate for transporting from said eastern cities to Detroit, than to Toledo, whereas, the rate should be the same.

For transporting freight over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway, and also over the continuous line formed by the Pennsylvania company and the Michigan Central Railroad company aforesaid from said eastern markets to Toledo and Detroit, it causes a greater charge to be made for a shorter than a longer distance over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included in the longer distance.

It unjustly compels the payment of a greater proportionate rate for transporting freight from eastern cities to Toledo than to Lansing, Jackson, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids.

It provides better facilities for shipping freight from said Michigan cities than from Toledo, and gives a practical rebate from the schedule rates from said cities to other points on said defendant's routes, and by relieving shippers from the burden and expense of carting goods from their business houses to the defendant's depots and warehouses, gives the merchants of said cities an undue and unfair advantage over the merchants of Toledo in selling goods at such points.

In all of which particulars such discrimination is a violation of the act to regulate commerce.

The petition in conclusion prays that the railroad companies named may be required to answer the charges made, and after hearing and investigation of the same, an order be made commanding the said defendants to cease and desist from said violation of the act to regulate commerce, and for such other and further order as the commission may deem necessary in the premises.

U. state superintendent, department of social purity, addressed the same meeting. Next week Mrs. Murphy will go to the "Y" conference at Massillon, on the question of school suffrage.

The semi-monthly meeting of Woodbridge W. C. T. U. will be held Monday afternoon next, at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. J. B. Plummer, 322 Locust street.

A pleasant social time was enjoyed by those who attended the supper served by the working band of the First Congregational church last evening. One hundred people sat down at the tables, between 6 and 8 o'clock, and were served with good things to eat, from oysters to ice cream. Tables for the sale of fancy work were well patronized. A feature of the evening was "The Plum Pudding." It was made of brown cambric, with raisins attached. For 5 cents one could pull out a raisin from the inside in the shape of a bon-bon box, or some fancy article.

There promises to be a good attendance at Dr. Cravens' Shakesperian lecture this evening, in Memorial hall annex. He will talk upon Shakespeare's masterpiece, "Hamlet," and some readings will be given.

SHORT STREET STORIES.

A Relic of the Wreck.

The American Express company yesterday received a badly mangled garment addressed to Black & Co., cloak manufacturers, of this city. The garment was a handsome sacque and was in the car of the train recently stopped and robbed on the Milwaukee & Chicago by train robbers. It will be remembered that in order to open the door of the car and frighten the messengers the train robbers threw a bomb, which partially wrecked the car and damaged its contents. The sacque was bound for the far northwest and looks as if it had been through a threshing machine. The express company, it is understood, will stand the loss.

The Message That Never Went.

Bill Scantling, until recently clerk at the Burnett, had an experience with a telegraph message that might be a warning to others. He was corresponding with the proprietor of a hotel relative to accepting the management of it. He received a message asking him to come on at once. This was on Wednesday. He answered back:

"Will go Sunday. Cannot go before. Will Sunday do?"

He rang up a messenger boy and, giving him 25 cents, told him to return the answer as soon as possible.

Thursday and Friday went by and still no answer. On Saturday he received the following.

"Why don't we hear from you? Are you coming?"

Upon investigation it was found that the first message had never been delivered at the office here. The boy had quietly slipped the 25 cents into his pocket and torn up the message.

TO-NIGHT'S TRI-STATE AFFAIR.

ISAAC IS HEARD FROM.

A man named Isaac Spayd, of Company I, Fourteenth Ohio, from Whitehouse, left his wife and children in 1868. Nothing having been heard of him since that time until the present date, his widow supposed him to be dead and made application for pension in July. Yesterday word was received that Isaac has a claim pending in the pension office, and is located at Pattawattoma, Ks. The future will probably reveal the past.

BURT BOUND OVER.

Frank Burt, the Sylvania farmer charged with keeping and detaining a letter, had a hearing before United States Commissioner Hall yesterday afternoon, as stated in the Bee yesterday, and bound over in $300 to the next term of the United States district court. Burt admitted having received the letter, but said he laid it in a box, and that was the last he saw of it.

KOCH'S DISCOVERY.

The tubercle bacilli were discovered by Prof. Koch, to be constantly present in all cases of consumption. Where the blood is impoverished or impure, there results that constitutional condition known as scrofula, which is characterized by the liability of certain tissues to become the seat of chronic inflammations and enlargements.

These troubles may start as catarrh in the nasal passages, throat or lungs, and as the membranes become weakened, the tubercle baccilli enter, and multiply, and we have, as a result, that dread disease—Consumption.

Find a perfect remedy for scrofula, in all its forms—something that purifies the blood, as well as claims to. That, if it's taken in time, will cure Consumption. It has been found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. As a strength-restorer, blood-cleanser, and flesh-builder, nothing like it is known to medical science. For Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung affections, Weak Lungs, severe Coughs, and kindred ailments, it's the only remedy so sure that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, your money is refunded.

Even Foraker wouldn't object to Brice in the senate if he could defeat John Sherman. That is the way with politics and politicians.

The omen is good; a man named Griffin knocked his opponent out in a lively fight in New Orleans this week. Our Griffin is a hard hitter and will endeavor to keep up the family record.

Nobody supposed the water works law, which Mr. Griffin made applicable to the gas business, would become obnoxious to Toledo pipe liners, yet such is the fact and the cry now is for repeal.

Somebody ought to tell Judge King, of Youngstown, chairman of the republican state committee, not to make a fool of himself. He is very likely to do so in the Brice matter.

And still the wonder grows, how the new tax law can advance prices to the producer and decrease prices to the consumer! The "free trade liars" demand explanation in vain.

Of course Connecticut will go democratic next year, but since the brethren in Michigan fixed the electoral vote of their state so nicely, the democrats can elect a president without Connecticut.

Ex-Speaker Hysell has sold his Paulding Democrat to E. S. Nichols and J. B. Dickman, who are newspaper men of experience. Mr. Hysell will engage in other business. The Democrat is valuable property and a reliable party organ.

There is one thing Benny Harrison can do; he is a wing shot of reputation. A little trip to the marsh this week enabled him to put twenty-eight ducks in the cold storage box for to-morrow's white house dinner. What a jolly time Baby McKee and Grandpa will have.

Iowa democrats celebrated in becoming manner in Keokuk on Thursday night. At frequent intervals the names of Cleveland and Boies were mentioned as the great combination for next year and the enthusiastic Hawkeyes cheered to the echo. Indeed, it would be a great ticket.

More than one tear of regret will fall from eyes which never beheld "Billy Florence" except behind the footlights, when news of his death is read. A genial presence, long felt and heartily appreciated, is gone from the American stage. The curtain is rung down on the last act—Billy has gone behind the scenes.

An old book containing the ante-revolutionary records of all criminal proceedings in Fairfax county, Virginia, has been found. George Washington's name appears as a tax evader and an indictment against him is spread upon the journal. Morganthaler and Warwick should look up that little matter. There may be millions in it.

The Canton News-Democrat is authority for the statement that ex-Governor Foraker will control several important appointments under the McKinley administration. This is not surprising. It would be very natural and proper for Gov. McKinley to consult the last preceding republican governor. We presume also, ex-Governor Foster will not be without influence with Gov. McKinley.

"Under Ruth's Banner" is the pretty caption to a dispatch which reads that clubs of democratic ladies are forming in various sections to further the nomination and election of Grover Cleveland. Members pledge themselves as "having sincere affection for Mrs. Cleveland, great respect for Grover Cleveland and unbounded admiration for Baby Ruth." That's real pretty and may the blessings of Democracy rest upon the heads of these devoted women.

The contest for the clerkship of the house of representatives took a sudden and queer turn on Thursday. Ex-Congressman Gibson, who served three terms with distinction from a Maryland district, was clearly in the lead for the place. The death of Senator Wilson, of Maryland, several months since made a vacancy of a few months, and to this honorable office the Governor of Maryland has just appointed Mr. Gibson. He has accepted and now it is anybody's race for the clerkship of the house.

It is announced that the protected iron barons of Pennsylvania have entered upon a concerted movement for the destruction of the organization of their employes, the "Amalgamated Steel and Iron Association." With perhaps one exception, this association is the strongest trades organization of workingmen in this country. Of late the relations between employers and employes in the iron industry have become very much strained, but the men continue to believe one fable the bosses have told them, namely, that protection keeps up their wages. Should this effort to break down their organization succeed, they will learn in the hardest school one necessary lesson, that it is the manufacturers and not the men protection protects.

By a vote of 481 to 8 the mining congress in session at Denver adopted resolutions favoring the unlimited coinage of silver. This decisive vote represents the sentiment of the mining sections, but as it is a selfish interest it must not be considered as the expression of the west in general. It is a miners' congress and nothing less was to be expected. Still there is reason for politicians to weigh this question seriously. Election majorities in the mining states turn upon the votes of the miners, and there are a sufficient number of electoral votes way out west to turn a presidential election. The silver question has grown beyond the control of Wall street and the atmosphere of Gotham. It will be a living issue in the presidential campaign next year.

At last Virginia has decided upon a plan for paying its debt that is satisfactory. It provides that all bonds of the state not heretofore funded shall be aggregated in a capital of $19,000,000 bearing two per cent. interest. This, added to the remaining funded debt amounts to about $27,000,000. The debt question in Virginia has been a serious business and political obstacle ever since the close of the war, and so intense was the feeling a few years since that the reliable old democratic state was represented by two republicans—Mahone and Riddleberger, in the United States senate. The trouble originally grew out of the republican measure dividing Virginia into two states. It was known at the time that West Virginia under reconstruction restrictions would be republican, and that was the only object in making the division. The apportionment of the state debt should have been made proportionately, as a business proposition, but it was saddled onto old Virginia, and West Virginia commenced the duties of statehood practically free from encumbrance. The old timers in Virginia objected, hence the origin of the repudiationists which overwhelmed political organizations for a time. Happily the matter is now adjusted and there will be no further trouble.

A silver anniversary—the quarter post in the century. It hardly seems possible that Forsyth Post, G. A. R., is so old, for it seems incredible that the drums ceased the reveille and taps so long ago. The faces of these veterans of ours do not indicate the strife of the four years' conflict, yet since that time almost a new republic, certainly a new south, has grown and flourished. A new generation is transacting the business of the country, yet these veterans are here, hale, hearty, active, and as young in thought and energy as the best of their neighbors. Verily, while many who survived the carnage of battle have since bivouacked on the other shore, Time has dealt lightly with those who remain in Forsyth Post, and the older the Post becomes the more it is cherished by this community. It is the monument of past glory, the strength of present manhood. All honor to the comrades who celebrated last night. May they enjoy many, many more pleasant anniversaries. Yet, as they gather around the camp fire and enjoy the pleasures of comradeship and gratefully appreciate the genuine friendship of citizens who bear them great respect they cannot fail to realize that—

"Years following years, steal something every day:

Some day taps will be sounded for the last veteran and the Grand Army will muster on the other side.

The silver coinage advocates and the mono-metalists are agreed upon the desirability of international adjustment of the relations between gold and silver. So far so good. The precious metals have money value when authorized by government law, and in business exchange become profitable in proportion to the extent and volume of business transactions. As it is the policy of our government to limit its trade, so far as practicable, to the home market, it need not seriously concern us what value other nations place upon our coins, whether gold or silver. Gov. McKinley is hailed as the champion of the home market at the banquet of the home market club, in Boston. Ours is the only country in the world where tradesmen and publicists boast of home markets. Even in the protected countries of Europe foreign trade is solicited. Here the foreign intercourse is of secondary consideration, and "American goods for American homes," and "protect American artisans by keeping away foreign goods," is dinned into the ears of the voters from one end of the country to the other. If we are to swap jack knives for a living there is no need of worrying about our coinage. A Barlow knife will do to "trade on sight unseen" as well as anything else. This is the logical conclusion of the attempt to justify the two propositions of restricting trade and establishing a fixedness of coinage values by international arrangement. It is a sort of go-as-you-please all around.

IMPROVING THE LAKE SERVICE.

It is an old story to talk about the immense business transacted on the Great Lakes of the United States, but some stories grow better with age, and so one who has made even a cursory investigation of this subject becomes an enthusiast, and comprehends the growing necessity of improving these important water ways.

A movement to secure the systematic co-operation of all interests along the lakes in the proposition to improve the several channels has taken definite shape. A convention will be held in Detroit within the coming month to formulate a plan and determine the best method of operation. The scheme of improvement outlined by the projectors of this movement is—

"A channel 21 feet in depth consecutively from one end of the lakes to the other.

"Harbor improvements where they will do the most good to the general business of lake transportation, including facilities for handling ships and easy access to important products.

"Lighthouses, fog signals, buoys, range lights and other aids to navigation.

Given these improvements and advantages the Great Lakes will double their tonnage within ten years. The ship-yards will outgrow their capacity of building, the harbors will teem with growing industry, the cities will multiply and millions of inhabitants will crowd the shores of nature's great inland routes of travel and commerce.

There is also demand for the present, as well as the future, in the improvements suggested, as it is a well-known fact to all marine men that the waters of all the lakes have receded during the past few years leaving the connecting rivers, the St. Marys, St. Clair and Detroit dangerously shallow in many places. The keeper of the water works crib at Chicago says the water in Lake Michigan has fallen three feet in eleven years, and that of the three two feet were lost the past two years. This is a remarkable decrease and necessarily affects all connecting rivers and navigable streams tributary to the several lakes. The falling water is noticeable in the Maumee at Toledo, and a thorough system of dredging will soon be necessary.

There is reason for united effort of the lake interests from Buffalo to Chicago and to Duluth; and the greater the demand for united effort the better the work should be prosecuted before congress. More than fifty congressional districts touch upon the shores of the lakes or are affected by shipping interests. The congressmen representing such districts would constitute a powerful combination if they were so disposed. Fortunately in the discussion of this question politics would be entirely eliminated, and the members could enter upon their work with a hearty good will for the common welfare of millions of people. The improvement of inland seas is the greatest subject for the central western states to consider. Half the commerce of the west and central south is more or less affected by the lake traffic. It is of greater interest than the operation of railways. The tonnage is greater than that of the whole Atlantic coast. It is the greatest highway in the whole world. It is the backbone of trade and should be strengthened in every conceivable manner. The movement set on foot by the wide awake business men of Detroit should be heartily seconded by Toledo, which is as important a lake port as any on the great chain. Join hands for the general good. The coming winter should show results that will insure the thorough and complete improvement of all channels connecting all the Great Lakes.

ABUSES OF IMMIGRATION LAWS.

Five commissioners, sent out by the United States government, went to Europe last July, to investigate the immigration business. Newspaper correspondents on the other side alluded to them now and then as having a kid-glove sort of a time, in restaurants and places of public resort, but nowhere visible in the haunts of the emigrant, about to sail. They were greatly handicapped, to be sure, in that they couldn't speak French or German, and some persons wondered why linguists, to that extent, were not chosen, when they are not difficult to fine. One of these five commissioners, however, Herman J. Schulties, seemed to realize that he had a mission in the old world and was not out for a holiday. He sought out the ports where the emigrants most do congregate, and, disguised beyond suspicion, learned some things about the methods of the "charitable" emigration societies and their allies, the steamship companies. Assistant to these, according to Mr. Schulties, are various organizations for charity, and societies with pious sounding names, which form a system for shipping the indigent, imbecile and criminal population to American shores. The United States is the land of the free and the home of the brave and all that, but it doesn't purpose to become an established mission school and reformatory, or a penal colony for the universe.

But the gravest charge made by Mr. Shulties is, that officers in charge of the immigration bureau in New York are guilty of connivance with the steamship companies in perpetrating this criminality. Some of the most active of these are the very men sent abroad by the government to investigate immigration abuses, during the summer just passed. As usual a committee must needs be appointed to investigate the committee of investigation aforesaid. It is getting to be very expensive business Official position seems to be a holiday lark on the salary it will bring.

Naturally, Superintendent Weber, the official chairman of the summer junketing party, is wroth with the exceptional commissioner and refuses to give attention or credence to his report. He cannot disguise the fact, however, that Mr. Schulties, in Europe, went where the others did not and gave diligent attention to the mission he was sent to perform, even to the extent of coming home in the steerage of the Servia, to complete his study of the subject. From these presents and corroborating testimony the people will make up an opinion. Secretary Foster must give his early attention not only to the scandalous and criminal abuses reported by Commissioner Schulties but also to the chairman of the committee and his associates who had such "a good time" and brought home less information than is already on file in the state department, and who, it is charged, are in league with the old world conspirators.

If Mr. Schulties' charges be true, our own officers, even to specially appointed commissioners, are still more culpable. It is a question of paramount importance to the country and one the consideration of which cannot be postponed.

As showing the opinion of practical and sensible republicans on the question of Col. Brice's seat in the senate, the following is reproduced from the Sandusky Register of to-day

Judge King, the chairman of the republican state committee, proposes to have a meeting of representative republicans to consider the right of Mr. Brice to a seat in the senate. Judge King raises two objections to Mr. Brice, one that he was not a legal resident of Ohio at the time he was elected, and another that he secured the place by bribery. If either position could be maintained the senate would undoubtedly oust Mr. Brice. So far as residence is concerned we see nothing in that objection. As to bribery it largely depends on the complaints of Pap Thomas, of Springfield, who probably will fail to make good the assertions he made when smarting under defeat at the time of the election of Mr. Brice. Public informers are witnesses of doubtful character, and disappointed office-seekers are apt to say things in moments of excitement they repudiate when cooler. Mr. Brice will be sworn in, take his seat, and in our opinion keep it to the end of his term.

In the early days of Illinois one Jesse Thomas was elected a senator for that state. He was a territorial judge at the time. He served two terms, and Mr. T. C. McEwen, of this city, informs us that during all the time Thomas was in the senate he resided at Mt. Vernon, O., where he had a home.

A Great Law.

The secretary of the treasury announces that it is illegal for newspapers to print pictures of the new coins. This action is taken not, as some might suppose, to protect the new coins from ridicule, but to avert the dire danger of a newspaper picture of a half dollar being passed on some intelligent citizen for legal tender. Great law, that!—Chicago Times.

Son Russell's Silence.

It is a notable fact that since the election Son Russell has not had a word to say on any subject whatever. His hopes of establishing his succession as heir apparent have been severely discouraged, but he will recover. He is a young man who could not be crushed if a house fell on him.—St. Louis Republic.

Republican Reps in a Bad Way.

The Home Market club will be McKinleyed to-night. But not even the presence of the Ohio Napoleon can restore harmony between the party leaders in Massachusetts, even for a night. Walker and Cogswell are still obdurate. They will have none of Lodge if they know it.—Boston Globe.

Comforting to Decent People.

Foraker's impudent proposition to oust Brice in order that he may have the seat is comforting to decent people. It is a confession that "Fire Alarm" has given up hope of defeating Sherman, and there is no prospect whatever that he will get Brice's seat.—Kansas City Star.

It Probably Does.

THE COMING WINTER.

Prof. Foster Talks on What Is to Come.

Much Dry Weather in Store for Next Summer.

The Early Winter Predictions and How They Have Panned Out—Gales, Blizzards and Such Are on the Program

Copyrighted 1891 by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 21.—Our astronomers have divided the year into four seasons, and they give December 21st as the beginning of winter, and except in the extreme northern parts of the United States and in the most elevated mountain ranges we seldom have real winter before the middle of December, while the middle of November is quite early for winter weather in the great valleys along the 40th degree of north latitude.

I predicted that winter weather would occur in the northern mountains early in October and that it would gradually spread to the valleys earlier than usual. Careless newspaper editors have commented on this so as to make the impression that I predicted winter to begin all over the country in October. The middle of November would be very, and November 24 unusually early for real winter in the middle latitudes of the United States and there is ample time after these dates for a long, hard winter.

Some of the cotton planters and dealers for a time regarded my prediction that the cotton crop this year would not exceed that of last year as a mistake, but they now see that I was right. Early frosts, extremes of weather, excessive rains and excessive drouths have each taken a hand in cutting down what at one time promised to be the largest crop ever grown, and now the crop is reported as being less than that of last year.

Expecting an early winter and the weather being dry and favorable for picking, the planters have made unusual speed in gathering their cotton, and this has thrown the cotton so rapidly into the markets that New York and English speculators have made use of it to depress the prices, claiming that the crop was the largest ever grown. Cotton picking is about over and there is a great and sudden falling off in the number of bales taken to market. After criticising my predictions as to damages that would surely result to the cotton crop the dealers and planters now see that I was right.

To some extent the same is true of the corn crop. Farmers anticipated an early winter and rushed the gathering which makes the crop appear larger than it is and speculators are using this to depress the prices. At this time nearly all the corn is cribbed and the cotton gin, fully four weeks earlier than usual. The crops are good but not so great as represented.

These preliminaries open the way for a very important long range forecast and I make it this early in order that planters, farmers and local dealers may have the advantage of it. A serious drouth will affect the crops in the cotton states and the south half of the corn belt next year. This drouth will not be general over the drouth districts mentioned above but will occur in very large spots along and south of the 40th degree of north latitude. The same influences that caused the drouth this fall will be much greater during the crop growing season next year. The storm centers will cross the continent far to the north as they have for three months past and this invariably causes drouth and very hot weather south of the storm tracks. The heaviest rains next year will occur in the highlands and near the 45th degree of north latitude.

Those who were reading my weather letters in 1890 will remember that I predicted good crop for the United States for 1891 except in the extreme north and the extreme southwest. Next summer will be excessively warm as the past spring and summer, prior to August, were excessively cool.

My last letter gave forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from the 17th to the 21st, and the next will leave the Pacific coast about the 22d, cross the great central valleys from 23d to 25th and reach the Atlantic coast about the 26th, and will be of much more importance in the eastern than in the western states. Disagreeable, cold weather will follow this disturbance and severe gales, possibly a blizzard. The blizzard follows the storm center and is usually behind the storm center one or two days. The wintry weather will be more severe following the next disturbance.

During drouths, such as occurred during this fall, the effects of storm waves are not so noticeable as when the rain or snow season comes in and while the storms are running far to the north some do not understand the utility of the forecasts. But the storm center, although a thousand miles away, is still the key to the weather and the temperature, direction of the wind and its force change as the storm moves eastward during a drouth and the storm waves move across the continent just as regularly during a drouth as at any other time.

Science Notes.

Cholera, smallpox, sunstroke, the grip, yellow fever, diphtheria and other epidemic diseases affecting man; hog cholera, pinkeye, Texas fever and other diseases affecting the lower animals are periodic, caused by the changed condition of our atmosphere, brought about by a sudden increase of electricity, caused by the position of the planets Jupiter and Saturn.

I will not undertake to discuss all these diseases nor all the epidemic positions of these great planets. Saturn occupies six of these positions in 29 1-2 years, three of which are easily traced in historical statistics, and Jupiter occupies four of these positions in 11.8 years, two of which cause important epidemics.

I will only try to establish one of these epidemic causes at this time and this will open up a great field of thought for our medical students.

When Jupiter crosses the sun's equator as the former is going toward perihelion the greater epidemics occur and their periods are nearly 12 years apart. Midway between these Jupiter crosses the sun's equator as the former is going toward aphelion and following this event the lesser epidemics occur which also have periods of nearly 12 years.

Taking the records of all nations we find that cholera epidemics have occurred in the following years: 1795, 1801, 1807, 1813, 1819, 1825, 1831, 1836, 1842, 1848, 1854, 1860, 1866, 1872, 1877, 1883 and 1889, and these are the years in which Jupiter passed the sun's equator. The dates given are the beginnings of the epidemics which usually continue from one to three years.

The greatest epidemics occur at about 59 years apart and that is the period at which Jupiter and Saturn occupy relatively the same positions, as in that time Jupiter makes exactly five revolutions around the sun and Saturn exactly two revolutions.

On the same basis we may calculate the periods of all epidemics that affect man and beast. These diseases are caused by microbes which are greatly increased in number by a great increase of electricity in our atmosphere. Electricity is the life principle and when it is rightly understood by our physicians they will have better success in prolonging life. W. T. FOSTER.

November Products.

"November," says the Tribune eagerly, "is not a good month for anarchy." While this may be true enough, there are those who, remembering the exploits of Zach Chandler in November, 1876, and of Quay and Dudley in November, 1888, will hold that it is a very good month for something more threatening to the integrity of the nation than anarchy—namely, republican frauds upon the ballot.—Chicago Times.

THE WARRING BOARDS

Come Together and Agree as to the Terms

Under Which Natural Gas Shall Be Supplied to the Water Works Pumping Station.

Another conference was held last evening between the board of gas trustees and the water works trustees, for the purpose of reaching some settlement in the matter of furnishing natural gas to the water works pumping station. The meeting was held in the water works office, and there were present Messrs. Parsons, Greene, Jones and Backus, of the gas board, and Messrs. Shaw and Parks, of the water works board. City Solicitor Read was also present, and gave the gas trustees a pointer or two.

The gas board had rescinded its resolution to cut off the gas at the pumping station Monday, and the meeting was called for the purpose of making some agreement and avoid threatened legislation. The water works board did not fancy the idea of having its gas cut off and the gas board were determined to do it.

The conference lasted until half past ten last night, and some very warm discussions were indulged in. The legal points of the question were discussed at length, while City Solicitor Read reiterated his opinion on the question, which is that the gas board must furnish gas to the water works if the latter insist upon it.

Mr. Read, however, urged that the two boards come to some amicable agreement and avoid litigation. He warned them of a calamity if the matter was taken into court, for that would stir up more trouble, and the fact that two city boards were arrayed against each other in the courts would leave the gas bonds in bad shape and be an injustice to the bondholders, as it would greatly depreciate their value.

The gas board complained that the water works line tapped the main line before it reached the regulator, and therefore obtained an unusual pressure and cut off considerable from the city mains.

After everybody had had a hand in the discussion, an understanding was reached, which is practically the first position taken by the gas trustees. It was decided that the water works' connection should be changed to a point inside the regulator and the gas trustees will furnish gas to the pumping station as long as they can do so without interfering with private consumers in the city. When, in the judgment of the gas trustees, there is not gas enough the water works shall be cut off and they must burn coal at the pumping station.

This was not very satisfactory to the water works board, but as it was the best they could do it was accepted in order to avoid litigation, and the superintendent was instructed to at once procure a supply of coal and be prepared for any emergency.

A CHAT WITH CLARKSON.

He Thinks Republicans Will Win in 1892.

Gossip About the Location of the Convention.

He Refuses to Talk on the Question of the Nomination—What the Iowan Thinks of Senator-Elect Hill.

"The claims of all the cities will be carefully considered," said Mr. Clarkson. "There will probably be a very full attendance at our meeting Monday. Every one of the forty-eight members of the committee will be present either in person or by proxy. I have expressed no preference myself regarding the location of our convention and I do not care to do so. Cincinnati, Omaha and St. Paul have been doing the most active hustling.

"Chicago seems to think the convention will gravitate to her naturally, although many of her citizens are of the opinion that the city has its hands full now with the world's fair and it would be good policy to let the national convention go elsewhere next year.

Dispatches from the Pacific coast indicate that San Francisco is very anxious to have our convention there, but no formal application has been received up to the present time by the national committee from that city. I presume that the people of San Francisco have put their case into the hands of Mr. De Young, who is a member of the committee and a very energetic man.

"I should, of course, be in favor of holding the convention where it would do us the most good politically. My observation, however, has been that the location of the convention has no bearing whatever on the election. I do not think that the proposition of any city to pay the expenses of the delegates will have any influence with the national committee in deciding the location of the convention. Many of us would enjoy an excursion to San Francisco. New York has also many attractions, but the hotels are inadequate."

Mr. Clarkson, if elected chairman of the republican national committee, will only serve until the meeting of the national convention next year, as every convention elects a new committee, whose chairman is designated by the candidate of the party for president.

"Do you think the outlook is favorable to the renomination of President Harrison?" Mr. Clarkson was asked.

"In the parks there is a sign which reads, 'Please keep off the grass.' In asking questions about possible presidential candidates you are treading on the grass of my private domain, and I shall call your attention to the notice to keep off," and Mr. Clarkson smiled good naturedly.

"The republican party can win next year with any good candidate," he continued, "providing there is proper organization and aggressive work done. The democrats to win must carry, in addition to the solid south, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana, and at least three of the electoral votes of Michigan.

"Michigan is strongly republican on national issues, and we do not propose to let the democrats get more than one or two electoral votes in that state next year. I do not question the constitutionality of the act passed by the Michigan legislature changing the method of choosing presidential electors in that state, although it was clearly a partisan trick.

"The constant repetition of Gov. Hill of his claim that the democrats will control both branches of the New York legislature should put republicans on their guard. What scheme is Gov. Hill evolving in his fertile brain? He is by far the ablest, if the most unscrupulous, politician in the democratic party. It has occurred to me that perhaps his object is to change the method of choosing presidential electors in this state, not after the Michigan plan (that would scarcely be advisable from a democratic point of view), but by the legislature direct.

"Previous to 1832 there were three systems in vogue for the choosing of presidential electors in the several states. One was by congressional districts (as has been reverted to in Michigan), another by the legislatures and third by the people direct. The latter method was adopted by all the states in 1832 as the fairest and most equitable.

"There is nothing but public sentiment, however, to prevent any state from adopting either of the old methods I have named. Should the democrats control the New York legislature this winter they could pass a law repealing the existing statute and provide for the election of presidential electors by the legislature itself.

"Then Gov. Flower could call the legislature together in October and have a full set of democratic presidential electors manufactured to order. It would be somewhat revolutionary, but still be within the pale of the law, and experience teaches us that David B. Hill is willing to go very close to the line in order to gain a partisan advantage. I am informed, however, that there is no serious danger of the republicans losing the state senate, so we shall probably never know just what brilliant idea is floating through the mind of Mr. Hill in that connection.

"The method of choosing presidential electors should be uniform in all states. I am in favor of a constitutional amendment to that effect. It seems to me that the democrats as well as the republicans should agree upon that point. Unless this is done, there will always be danger of serious complications arising out of a confusion of the method of choosing electors in the different states. Partisanship does not enter into the matter at all."

Mr. Clarkson said that he believed the farmers' alliance party would not cut much of a figure in the campaign next year. There was an impression that this movement had been started in the northwest, when, as a matter of fact, it had its birth in Texas as far back as 1876. It was a creation, he declared, of the southern politicians, who were, in his opinion, the shrewdest pliticians of the world. Their idea was to divide the republican vote of the north, and they ultimately succeeded for a brief period, to the sorrow of Mr. Ingalls and a number of other gentlemen. The republican farmers had made the discovery, Mr. Clarkson said, that they were being used to pull democratic chestnuts out of the fire and they would refuse in the future to act as the democratic catspaw.

The old saying that "consumption can be cured if taken in time" was poor comfort. It seemed to invite a trial, but to anticipate failure. The other one, not so old, "consumption can be cured," is considered by many false.

Both are true and not true; the first is prudent—one cannot begin too early. The means is careful living. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil is sometimes an important part of that.

Our best physicians unqualifiedly indorse it. Although tasteless, it retains all the curative properties of the crude oil. In

WHEN MY SHIP COMES IN.

"When my ship comes in," runs the young man's song,
"What brave things shall I do
With the strength of my wealth and the joyous throng
Of friends stout-hearted and true."

He watches and waits 'neath storm and sun,
By the shore of his life's broad sea,
And the days of his youth are quickly run,
Yet never a sail spies he.

"My ship has gone down!" in soberer strain
Sings the man, and to duty turns.
He forgets the ship in his toil and pain,
And no longer his young hope burns.

Yet again by the shore he stands grown old
With the course of his years well spent,
And gazing out on the deep—behold,
A dim ship landward bent!

No banner she flies, no songs are borne
From her decks as she nears the land;
Silent with sail all somber and torn
She is safe at last by the strand.

And lo! To the man's old age she has brought
Not the treasures he thought to win,
But honor, content and love—life-wrought,
And he cries, "Has my ship come in!"

The city of London is put down by geographers as the center of the landed hemisphere. In other words, a radius of about 6,000 miles on the curved surface of the earth, with London as the center, would describe a circumference inclosing more land than any 6,000-mile circle that could be drawn from any other city in the world.

Every boy has believed that all the possibilities are bundled up in the mulberry tree, and so it seems they are. The paper tree of the south seas is a species of the mulberry. It is also used in the manufacture of a very fine grade of paper.

The earliest known attempt at the production of an article similar to the paper of later or modern times was made in Egypt many centuries before the Christian era, some writers affirm 2,500 years B. C. The oldest manuscript in existence is on papyrus, and is supposed to bear date of 1552 B. C. There are accounts of manufactories of paper for exportation at Memphis, 700 B. C.

Asia means morning or east. Europe, evening or west; Austria means lying to or in the south. Hence we may consider that these names mean Eastern Land, Western Land and Southern Land. Asia is a Greek word, Europe is the Hebrew oreb, Australia is a Latin word. The origin of the word "Africa" is uncertain. Some conjecture that it is a Semitic word, meaning "Land of Wanderers."

Her eyes are more lively, her mouth much prettier, her figure more elegant; but her skin is less white and not nearly as fine.

Some Points on the New Comedy, "Jane."

Rhea at Wheeler's Next Week in "La Czarina."

Carmencita Monday Evening, Accompanied by the Spanish Students—Nellie McHenry at the People's—Dramatic Notes.

Wednesday evening Mr. Charles Frohman's bright comedy success, Jane, will make its bow to local theater-goers at Wheeler's opera house. London laughed for one whole year at Jane, and New York would have done the same could time have been secured at the Madison Square theater. The comedy is of the highest class, appealing to the better element of amusement goers and the situations are handled naturally and not forced to create laughter. In the company are Miss Johnstone Bennett, whose bright work with Richard Mansfield causes her to be remembered. Mr. Paul Arthur, so long Comedian Nat Goodwin's leading support, Mr. R. F. Cotton, an English actor of note. Mr. M. C. Daly, remembered for his work with Annie Pixley in The Puritan's Daughter. Amelia Summerville, who made countless thousands laugh as the "simple village maiden" with Dixey in Adonis. Maggie Holloway Fisher, formerly with Cara Tamier in Alone in London. Miss Elaine Elson, of The Seven Ages, and Dixey fame. E. S. Edwards, the well-known eccentric character actor. Herbert Fortier and Jas. Totten. Jane will be preceded by a curtain raiser entitled, The Better Part. The story of Jane is interesting reading and runs as follows:

Charles Shakleton must have a wife. That he must have one immediately is imperative. Shakleton is a young gentleman bachelor of prodigal ways and immoderate habits. An elderly aunt of his left him her property upon the condition that before receiving any of it he was to marry. In order to deceive the trustee of the estate, an elderly gentleman named Kershaw, Shakleton writes that he is married, and upon this decepton secures money enough to pay his debts, but his reckless living soon leads to other extravagances, and Kershaw determines to pay the young man a visit to see what use is being made of the money.

Shakleton not brave enough to assume the entire responsibility writes that it is his wife who is dissipating the family fortune in so lively a manner. Shakleton receiving word of Kershaw's visit is in a quandary.

What seemed to be a neat way of evading the difficulty now becomes unpleasantly serious, and a wife for the situation must be provided. In Shakleton's employ are two servants, William and Jane, and upon the very morning of old Kershaw's visit, this worthy young couple take it upon themeselves to get married clandestinely.

William employs his master's confidence to a considerably extent and resolving to do a good turn starts out quietly to find a temporary wife for Shakleton. Shakleton, however, not anticipating William's friendly interest, starts out to look for a wife on his own hook and lights upon Jane. At first Jane indignantly refuses, and then, being a shrewd woman, with an eye to business, consents without first consulting her husband. Shakleton and Jane leave the house to make some necessary purchases when William appears on the scene with a Mrs. Chadwick, an elderly aunt of Miss Lucy Norton's—Shakleton's real fiancee.

Mrs. Chadwick is as gushingly sentimental as a miss of 16, and upon learning the state of things imagines that if she comes to the rescue at such a critical moment she may install herself permanently in Shakleton's heart.

Then, Mr. Kershaw appears and William leaves him in the hands of Mrs. Chadwick. Kershaw takes the woman for the mother-in-law of Shakleton, but this presumption is offensive to Mrs. Chadwick, and she indignantly announces herself as Mrs. Shakleton. Kershaw receives this information with astonishment, and he meditates that insanity alone could have prompted Shakleton to make such an alliance.

Then Shakleton appears on the scene with Jane on his arm, introducing her as his wife and denouncing Mrs. Chadwick as having imposed upon Kershaw. William's discomfiture and the comedy action from this point on, is refreshingly breezy and unstilted. The complication of a baby arises to heighten the interest.

Carmencita.

Society is awake to the fact that Carmencita comes to Wheeler's Monday night. Her success as a star has been something marvelous, as she had played to the capacity of nearly every theater that she has visited since her season opened in September last. The tour lasts but 20 weeks, and only the larger cities will be visited. Then Carmencita goes direct to Madrid, thence to Paris for a long engagement.

Probably no star that has ever visited the American shores has ever received the attention from painters, sculptors and society people that has been accorded the famous Spanish dancer, Carmencita, who began her first American tour early in September. She was described by the New York Press, during her engagement of 17 months in that city, as the craze of the hour, her art was so different from that to which the city had grown accustomed that some were unable to discern the real merit of her performance until they had seen her a second and a third time. Never before had any star attracted so much attention. Her triumph became more substantial as week after week she danced.

Carmencita tells of a happy incident in her life. It was when she appeared before the Queen of Spain and her suite at dinner; it was in a great hall in the palace and there were some forty other dancers there beside Carmencita. They went through their parts and then came Carmencita's turn. The baby king of Spain was at the table, and while the other dancers were gyrating hither and thither, the child seemed bored; but when Carmencita came down upon the long rug the boy's face lighted with every sign of pleasure. Before she had danced a minute his hands were clapping in babyish glee. It was the most genuine applause she had ever had, and she likes even now, after all her later triumphs before immense audiences, to tell of the admiration she won from that little child king of her own country.

During this, her first American tour, she is assisted by the famous Spanish Students, 11 in number, who were engaged by Signor Pablo Echepere, from the Royal Conservatoire, Madrid. The instruments used by them are the mandolin, guitar, violin, violincello and harp. The balance of the evening's entertainment is furnished by Koster & Bial's Vaudeville company, comprising the highest-salaried specialty artists from the London, Paris, and Berlin theaters.

A Night at the Circus.

Charming Nellie McHenry is to be the attraction at the People's theater next week, and she is sure to be a big card, for she is well known here and has always been a favorite. She has a new play.

A Night at the Circus is of the most pleasing comedy character, intermingled with musical numbers of the most select and original kind. It comes from the pen of H. Grattan Donnelly, that most successful of farce authors. In this piece he far exceeded anything of a humorous nature which he has yet attempted. It is refined and bright and sparkles with wit throughout. Miss McHenry is afforded every opportunity to display her capabilities as a comedienne. As such she has no peer on the American boards to-day.

Rhea.

It is a rare treat for Toledo people to have three performances by the splendid Rhea, but this is what will be given next Thursday and Friday, when she will appear in La Czarina.

The Detroit Tribune speaks of her engagement in that city as follows:

"The conditions of the atmosphere and streets last night were anything but propitious for theater-goers, still they did not deter a large audience from attending the opening performance of Rhea and her excellent company. The play was La Czarina, or Catharine I., Empress of Russia, a strong and interesting historical drama, whose presentation well merited the enthusiastic applause accorded it last night. There were curtain calls after each act and at the end of the second Rhea was presented with an elaborate basket of flowers. The play Catharine I., Empress of Russia, and the character which she delineates so faithfully, are well suited to the talents and style of Rhea. It was for this play she deserted that splendid stage historical romance, Josephine, Empress of the French, and though her new love is by no means any more interesting it is certainly as much so. Rhea in private life is a grand woman and she imbues all her characters with a grandeur and quiet nobleness that in itself is fascinating. There is no woman on the stage to-day who can look more regal, more like a queen than she. Her soft French dialect, making her at times difficult to understand, when in rapid speech, rather lends a charm to her personality than detracts."

The Bostonians.

The above excellent opera company will be at the Wheeler opera house on Monday, November 30. The Dramatic Mirror compliments them as follows:

"The Bostonians enjoy a national celebrity, and yet it is seldom that they honor New York with their presence. This is not only strange, but regrettable, because the company owned by Karl, MacDonald & Barnabee, is the strongest opera organization in the country. There is a refreshing absence of vulgarity, of offensive gags and of legs, and the Bostonians have seemed to remember that light opera is a distinctive form of musical play, having its proportions and limitations, and they appear to think that there is an opportunity for a production that is minus a clown, a talked-about prima donna and a crowd of pastry-fed women whose ability for displaying the gifts of nature is greater than their ability to sing the composer's music. For many reasons, every way, the advent of the Bostonians in this city was a welcome event, and they have played to large and fashionable audiences every night of their engagement.

"Every member of the troupe is thoroughly trained. They are all disciplined singers who bear their full share in giving the performance its high character, and the Bostonians can be set down as having made the biggest hit in the opera line which New York has seen in many a year."

Notes.

Master and Man will to-night close a most successful engagement at the People's theater.

The Clemenceau Case, about which much has been written, will hold the boards at Wheeler's next Saturday.

Manager W. M. Wilkison, who is directing the American tour of Alexander Salvini, will direct the tour of the world for his star, which will begin in London, at the Drury Lane theater, during presidential year.

Marguerite Fealy, of the Master and Man company, lost her chatalaine satchel last week in Detroit. It contained valuable papers, a sum of money, several diamond rings, a watch and chain, etc. Many of the articles were highly prized for other than their intrinsic value.

Niobe was given its 100th performance at the Bijou theater on Thursday evening, when the board of governors and officers of the Manhattan Athletic club were present. When the company starts on its travels next week it will visit the south and most of the New England cities.

C. B. Jefferson, Klaw and Erlanger's County Fair companies continue to do a record-breaking business wherever they appear. One of these companies appeared in Buffalo for the third time, playing to the capacity of the house nightly, while the special company continues to do big business through the south.

Charles T. Vincent has supplied a new play for Nat Goodwin. It is called A Gay Deceiver. The piece is an adaptation of Le Voyage D'Agrement, from which Charles Wyndham's Fourteen Days was made. There are several other adaptations of the same piece in America—one of them being by the adapters of Mr. Goodwin's The Nominee.

Manager Brady states that a comedy never visited Toledo under brighter auspices than Mr. Charles Frohman's Madison Square theater success, Jane. The people here have already demonstrated an unusual interest over the event and Mr. Brady has the highest assurances that the play is up to the high standard promised. In fact Jane is the sort of an attraction which requires no apologies after it has been presented for what as been promised before it comes.

"A melancholy phase of the dramatic profession is suggested by the recent death of Tony Hart and the appearance the same day upon Broadway of George S. Knight," says the New York World. "It would be difficult to suggest two names which have held a higher place in popularity than these two; and yet both of them are associated with men who have retired from the stage through softening of the brain. Mr. Knight walked up and down Broadway for two hours with his mother and though he appeared in perfect physical health and was recognized by hundreds of people, he could not recall a single face or name."

Francis Wilson, now in the sixth week of an engagement at the Broadway Theater, New York, that will last until May 1, has decided that he should prdouce at least one new comic opera a year, no matter how well the old favorite is running. In accordance with this plan, he announces that The Merry Monarch will be succeeded at the Broadway by The Lion Tamer, the joint work of J. Cheever Goodwin and Richard Stahl. The former as a librettist and the latter as musical composer, are said to have so delighted Mr. Wilson by their work that he is very anxious to begin rehearsals at once. To the many who have seen the versatile comedian in his present creation, and the large houses he draws, the necessity for a change of bill is not apparent. Richard Barker will stage the new production, and it is probable that the first performance will be given in a few weeks, although the exact date has not been announced.

I MISS THEE.

I miss thee—miss thee dearest one—
Miss thee ever from my side,
And oh, how sad the feelings lone
Which in my bosom e'er abide.

I gaze on hills and woods around
Whose beauties gladdened once thine eye,
And with the still dim light they're crowned
But read, loved one, thou art not nigh.

I list the young bird's happiest note
Which thrills with bliss the trembling air,
Yet sweetest strains that round me float,
But sadly breathe thou art not here.

And e'er within at twilight hour,
And in the evening's deeper gloom
'Tis most I feel thy spirit's power,
Yet vainly seek thee in my room.

I almost feel thy head doth rest
Where breathings warm may kiss my cheek,
While love's quick pulse doth thrill my breast,
In listening vows which thou would'st speak.

But e'en such momentary bliss
Doth steal in bitterness away,
For I have felt the parting kiss
Which robbed the world of Hope's sweet May.

And thus loved one 'twill ever be—
A sorrow deep my soul must bear,
While struggling, lone afar from thee,
I miss thee so, oh, everywhere!

How could I believe so calm a light
Could turn to so chill a gray?

And wherefore? Because the hand
That held it in its clasp my own—
Whose touch was a benediction such
As only the blest have known—

Was caught by the viewless hand
Of an angel, and upward drawn.
What hope, what comfort, what guidance now,
Since the stay of my life is gone?

Oh, Christ with His human heart
Will pity and understand
That speechless yearning, too deep for words,
For the "touch of the vanished hand!"

Is the Home in Danger?

Is it true that the enlarged education, the diversified interests that enter into woman's life in these latter days, contains an element of danger for the home? Perhaps so, for the old-time home, where the mother was too often the slave of the household, instead of the companion of any member of it, and the sisters were but the hand-maidens of their brothers. So long as men and women live will the home instinct implanted in the nature by the Creator assert itself. So long will the desire to possess one's own garden and vine and fig tree, and to slumber beneath one's own roof, be strong in human calculation. Yet the wide open doors of clubs, society rooms, public halls and lyceums do win men and women away from the old-time home habit. The question is, will the result be disastrous? There is an element of selfishness in the "close-the-doors-against-all-but-our-own" sentiment when it is carried to the extreme.

The harem idea of woman, veiled and invisible, unseen and unheard outside of the domestic circle and the female prayer meeting governed, in a degree, the primitive household of the puritan. But in those days both partners of the firm were home devotees. Now the world, with its multiplying complexities of civilization, demands more and more of man. Shall the woman double her devotions and remain behind, if it is left to her as a matter of choice? In point of fact few women make choice: they learn to adapt themselves to circumstances.

From the woman who has no thought for the morrow because somebody thinks for her, to the over-burdened one who must think and strive for herself and her family, are all gradations of need; but there is one cast-iron rule of custom and a legal limit made for all, and the first-mentioned favored one is the model taken in every instance. The other must strive with men in the market place and yet be too "womanly" to ask equal rights and privileges with him.

The trouble is there is no midway station between the harem idea and complete freedom for women. If the home once established were always established; if the wingless angel that men writers love to depict—the creature who can climb up and down stairs all day waiting upon sick children and be fresh and sweet and bright for supper (the supper she cooked herself as she could snatch the time), and ready to greet the oft-pictured "weary husband" with the oft-described "welcoming smile"—if she could know, and once for all, that no worldly responsibility would ever reach her, she might be contented within her four walls and the old-time limit of the garden fence. But circumstances change in a day and a night, and all the worries that the husband and father may know descend upon her unprepared shoulders. As woman is liable at any time to be pushed into the scramble for self-support, so must she know and be of the world in which she must struggle for a place. Don't you see? It is either exemption from all responsibility, or, in the name of simple justice, the same elbow room that is granted her stronger brother. * * * *

Perhaps we stray away from the text. Because the world has entered the home to so large an extent, is the home in danger? Results do not seem to prove that such is the case. Never before was so much attention given to the building of pretty and convenient, and with those possessed of larger means, elegant habitations. To be sure, a house is not a home, but they who plan and build a house of their own certainly show the instinctive desire for a home, whether or not they are gifted to make it such, in its most perfect sense. Love is the spirit of true home-keeping, and if love reign supreme, the wind that blows in through the open doors from the outside world will bring with it no blight, and the fragrance that passes out into the highways and by-ways will sweeten and bless those who wander on the outside of these Eden spots of the universe.

That is the ideal home where husband, wife and children place it first from love and free-will choice, not because there are bars on doors and windows to hinder ingress or egress. It is to this higher standard the home will be lifted, when women are equal in education, rights and privileges with their brothers. Then mothers will elect to make home bright and satisfying for their children since they know the need of wholesome influences, knowing also what they must meet when they go out into the world, children no longer. Then fathers will find companionship as well as creature comfort in the home however humble, that no establishment, however grand, can rival.

There will always be home-keepers by instinct, who are denied homes to keep, and women who would prefer life in more public places (and it need be accounted no disgrace) who are held in the quietude of retirement. Things go thus by contraries, the world over. There is only one way to help ourselves and others, and that is to make the best of what cannot be changed, and always do the duty first at hand conscientiously, faithfully, hopefully.

The home is not in danger because its devotees have taken upon themselves larger obligations. It will grow all the dearer, and the nearer to an ideal resting place for body and soul. Home will always be where the heart is, just the same whether all women study cooking or some women study law, and medicine. Like the politicians, we scare ourselves to death with theories, when actual results are on every side waiting our attention. The Cady Stantons and Anna Shaws, with their preachments and examples, are not the despoilers of home, but the upbuilders of nobler sanctuaries for human companionship.

The text or rather the provocation for this sermonette is put last, when perhaps it should have been first; it is a gentle and excellent paper by a gospel minister, in a late magazine. He believes in education and freedom for women, but he fears the tendency of events shows that the home, the safeguard of the people, is in danger.

Ah, well-a-day! It it is to be hoped that after six thousand years more of discussion the natural and necessary limit for woman and her work will be fully determined.

There are forty widows in the United States whose wealth aggregates $215,000,000; there are fifteen single women worth, in the aggregate, $125,000,000, and married women who control their own fortunes, amounting to $38,000,000. A total of sixty-six women who control the enormous sum of $378,000,000. A New York newspaper writer has patiently collected these figures. He says if they would combine their capital what a wonderful commercial concern or financial project they might establish. The suffragists will say, a good many millions dollars to be unrepresented by a single vote as to the tax levy upon it, or anything else connected with laws which control it and its owners.

What is Needed.

What is needed from women is not a revolution in dress, but common-sense and determination to set their faces strongly against any attempt to revive exploded follies. No tailor would dare make the attempt to bring back bag-wigs, small-clothes, gold-laced coats, stuffed thighs, or even flowered waistcoats. Why cannot women make their possession of reason and judgment sufficiently felt to forbid action on their behalf in opposition to past-day follies?—Jenny June.

Sure enough!, that's about the gist of it. Women are so volatile and unstable; so spasmodic in their reform movements (regarding dress). A few years ago the broad-toed common-sense shoe was the style. Now the pointed toe is in again, in full acceptance, if one may judge from appearances. At one time street dresses were made the proper and convenient length, and now they go dirt-scraping again; then tight lacing went out and graceful movement came in, but the wasp waists adorn the fashion books once more—waists over a yard long in some of the cuts, and the human figure looks more like an elongated walking stick or a minimized bean pole than anything else. Fussing about a reform costume; we haven't sense and courage to adopt the fashions that we know are good and comfortable and are not conspicuous enough in the way of change to cause comment.

A Welcome New Member.

Since the cordial invitation the Bee Household hostess gave us all, both old and new contributors, a short time ago, to lend our assistance as often as possible toward helping to fill up the space in the columns set aside especially for our mutual benefit, it is with a feeling of doing my duty that I now presume to address myself and ask for admission.

I have been a reader of the Household department of the Bee especially for some time, and confess that I have been both profited and diverted by the many good things presented therein by the sisters.

I have also enjoyed reading the interesting letters from Barbara Moss. In imagination I have followed her through all her journeyings, and agree with Patience Prim that she need ask no apology for the good descriptive letters she has so kindly given us.

I admire the independent, self-reliant manner in which some of the sisters defend all questions relating to woman and her sphere in this fair, free land of ours, and I think we cannot give too much thought and attention to the causes that in time must and will place woman where she rightfully belongs, though if all men were as egotistic and bitter in opposition to women's rights as "Dr. Buckley, of the New York Advocate," the sun would shine on many a long day before she would be given in all respects her rightful position in the world. At some future time I may perhaps give my ideas pertaining to the rights of women, and if what I have written finds a place in the Household columns I will come again.

Glad She Went.

Dear Bees: I am so glad I came to Canada. I am not only having a most delightful visit, but I have found out why Canada does not wish to be annexed to the States. Shall I tell you? Says Mr. S—— (who, by the way, is a prominent man in these parts), they send us over wooden hams, nicely done up in painted sacks, as you do them up over there. (Mrs. S. demurely remarked they must think we have good teeth over here) and that is not the worst, they sell us buggies with paper wheels, and they sell us paper harnesses; is it any wonder we do not wish to be annexed to the States?

Just think, what if one of these nice young men here were out for a drive with his best girl, with one of those buggies and harnesses, and it should come up a soaking rain, what a plight they would be in.

I must tell you about the fine kindergarten school they have here in Aylmer. In this room (it is in connection with their public schools) are 93 little ones, some of them as young as three and four years. It was so interesting to see them, first at their fancy work, folding paper, painting, working at embroidery with card-board and zephyr, etc.; then, at a signal from the piano (everything is done by music) tables and chairs are removed by the little people, and they proceed with their beautiful marching exercises and games. Their gesture songs were really fine (they have singing and music continually), then the tables and chairs are replaced and games with worsted balls of all colors are played. In the meantime the little ones are being taught the different colors, and about the birds of that color, etc. Thus they learn while at play, and do not realize it. The boys are taught to be very polite to the girls, helping them on with their hats and cloaks when the noon hour comes. There are seven teachers in the room, one leading teacher, who receives a salary of $300 a year; the rest are under-teachers, who have to serve two years' time without pay and buy their own instruction books. After the two years have expired they are obliged to pass an examination at Toronto, before they can command any wages.

THE SCRAP BASKET.

"Shakespeare has no heroes," says Ruskin; "he has only heroines. There is not one entirely heroic figure in all his plays, except the slight sketch of Henry the Fifth...Whereas there is hardly a play that has not a perfect woman in it, steadfast in grave hope and errorless purpose...The catastrophe of every play is caused always by the fault or folly of a man; the redemption, if there be any, is by the wisdom and virtue of a woman, and failing that, there is none...He represents them as infallibly faithful and wise counsellors,—incorruptibly just and pure examples, even when they cannot save....Though there are wicked women among the principal figures, they are felt at once to be frightful exceptions to the ordinary laws of life."

The longest night has its end in light
And for the gloom comes the rich adorning
Of earth and skies as the starlight dies
In the smile of the radiant morning.

Among the new fur-trimmed cloth garments the military cape promises to be the most fashionable. It falls full from the neck far below the waist, without height on the shoulders. The collar and yoke-like piece are of fur, and a short gathered cape of cloth is added to the yoke, giving fulness without height on the shoulders.

To become able to make something is, I think, necessary to thorough development. I would rather have a son of mine a carpenter, a watchmaker, a wood-carver, a shoemaker, a jeweller, a blacksmith, a bookbinder, than I would have him earn his bread as a clerk in a counting-house. What advantage the Carpenter of Nazareth gathered from his bench, is the inheritance of every workman in proportion as he does divine, that is honest, work.—George McDonald.

All right to my castles no man can dispute,
Nor find in my title a flaw;
As treasures in heaven, they're safe from the thief,
And free from the clutches of law;
All question of tariff, and action of sheriff
Assail my possessions in vain.
For though a whole bevy of them should make levy,
They can't touch my castles in Spain!

There is a deep, new shade of old rose that is especially becoming to brunettes; it is rich in camel's-hair cloth, and would make a suitable "going-away gown" for an autumn bride. Have it made after the "tailor cut," which describes all that is plain and stylish.

Past grief, old angers, revenges, even past pleasures constantly dwelt upon—all dead, decaying or decayed thought, make a sepulchre of the soul, a cemetery of the body and a weather-beaten monument of the face. This is age.

The repeated application of oil of cinnamon will cause those ugly excrescences—warts—to disappear. Rubbing them with salt is also recommended.

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well; and doing well whatever you do, without a thought of fame.—Longfellow.

Don't put yourself in the power of a man who will work a horse with a sore shoulder.

The great secret of success in life is to be ready when your opportunity comes.—Beaconsfield.

And so the days go by, the swift months pass;
A bud upon the stem, a flower—some leaves upon the grass.

And so the months flit on, the years go round;
A little child, a man, some clay, to mix with common ground.

THE TURKEY.

The turkey comes pretty near being the national bird, about thanksgiving time, at any rate. The eagle with its e pluribus unum streamer and its claws full of arrows and things is all right on flags and dollars, but when it comes to the mince pie and cranberry season, it is the turkey that "gets there." When we gather round the festal board on the sacred New England day we want to see legs and wings and fat, juicy breast pieces crowding off the platter, and the inside furnishing of savory "stuffing," bursting its confines. We need not be gourmands—that is we should not be. It is a descended sentiment you know, the fat thanksgiving feast, and had a meaning when fare was simple and monotonous the better part of the year and pies and sweetmeats were extras indeed. When the long morning walk and the long church service whetted the appetite, carnal and spiritual; the first for the ordorous cheer that was made ready and the other for companionship with dear ones who came from far and over rugged roads to once more take their places in the family circle.

Now-a-days, when the majority of us are reasonably well-fed the year round, the old-time flavor of the feast remains for those who know deprivation, and for whom largess is the occasion for rejoicing. The chief pleasure in the first instance is the delight of taking time and opportunity for enjoying our food together in a leisurely manner, one day in the year; and of being able to carry cheer to the less favored ones. But to our turkey. We have already published how to cook it. Some good suggestions are given in the Ladies' Home Journal, from which we quote:

Suitable Vegetables.

There are some things that are understood by most people to be necessary adjuncts of the roast turkey, among them being giblet sauce, cranberry sauce, celery, and certain kinds of vegetables.

For a change one might have mushroom or chestnut sauce and currant jelly. The celery might be cut into pieces about three inches long and then cut into narrow strips, placed in ice water for two or three hours, and then served on a bed of ice. Here are some combination of vegetables that will be appropriate to serve with roast turkey or chicken:

Stewed celery with cream, mashed potatoes, squash.

When and How to Serve Some Things.

Celery should be scraped and washed and then put in iced water, to be made crisp, at least an hour before it goes on the table. It is now served in long, flat glass dishes. It should be put on the table with the meat and the other vegetables, and it is to be removed before the desert is served.

Olives are put on broken ice in a rather deep glass or fancy dish, and some pieces of ice are laid upon them. This dish is placed on the table before the guests take their seats, and is not removed during the dinner.

Cranberry sauce or fruit jelly, to be eaten with meat, is placed on the table before the guests go in, and removed with the meat.

Confectionery, candied cherries, preserved ginger and salted almonds are arranged in little fancy dishes and placed on the table when it is set, and are not removed until the guests have left the table.

Salted almonds prepared at home always seem better than those purchased at the confectioners', perhaps because they are usually fresher. One only needs to blanch them, and to each half-pint add one tablespoonful of melted butter and a teaspoonful of fine salt; stir well, and then spread the nuts in a shallow cake pan, baking in a rather cool oven until the almonds become brown (about twenty minutes); then take from the oven and spread on a platter to cool. Surely, when the operation is so simple it is wise to prepare one's almonds oneself.

If pickles be used they should be placed on the table when it is set, and removed with the meat and vegetables.

Above all, dear hostess, at your thanksgiving table let good will and good cheer be the sauce piquante. If the only dishes be boiled potatoes, pork tenderloin, lettuce, bread and butter and coffee, give thanks indeed for an appetite equal to the enjoyment of so excellent a bill of fare and comfort yourself with the thought that nuts and mince pie are indigestible, and unnecessary adjuncts.

One word further in our Turkey screed, which, like Artemas Ward's lecture, continually runs away from its subject—we have been told and some of us may have observed the fashion of strewing flowers about the table by way of decoration. No matter if it is the fashion, it isn't pretty. It gives the table a littered look and the flowers soon have a withered and forlorn appearance. A faded flower causes a sensitive person the same unhappy feeling that an abnormally pale human face does, or eyes with worrying shadows about them. Place your flowers in loose bouquets in vases proportionate to their size and harmonious as to color. The prettiest arrangement to an artist's eye is the clear glass where stem and leaf, uncrowded can be seen green and fresh to the bottom. Then the blossoms seem to be so well situated and have something of a happy look. Finally be independent, consistent with surroundings and circumstances and with the rest, give thanks to the good Lord that you can think for yourself and are not necessarily an echo of somebody else.

Over Our Teacups.

Women were allowed to speak in the pulpits of Boston last Sunday.—Ex.

It is something that women are "allowed" to speak in the pulpit; but the distinguished W. C. T. U. delegates were "invited" to speak in Boston churches of a Sunday, as we understand it.

Kate Field says: "There are three codes of morals—one for women, one for men and one for royalty. Women must be virtuous or be socially damned; men may do as they please, provided they pay their bills and do not cheat at cards; royalty—well, there's a divinity doth hedge a king which makes of his orgies very proper tea parties. The one sympathetic link in these several codes is that nobody—not even a woman—loses caste unless found out."

"There seems to be some curious and inexplicable connection between theosophy and cigarettes," says an exchange. "Mme. Blavatsky smoked them in excess, and Dr. Elliott Coues, the leading American theosophist and a man of rare intellectual attainments, also consumes quantities of them. One of his servant's regular duties is to keep a jar of Egyptian tobacco and a package of rice papers at the doctor's side. Whenever the occult philosopher converses on his favorite topic, he punctuates his discourse every five minutes by plunging his fingers into the jar and deftly rolling a cigarette, which he lights with a perfumed wax match."

Which would seem to indicate that opium has to do with the intellectual and occult mysteries of the doctrine that is proclaimed from the Himalayan mountain tops.

Listen and be told the nicest way in the world to pop corn. By the way there's nothing more appetizing, harmless and sociable of an evening than crisp well-cooked pop-corn mixed in with the chat. It is pretty as well as good, and is wonderful withal. How the tiny bit of a hard black kernel livened by the heat can turn itself into a white-winged figure of ten times its original dimensions is always a mystery to childhood and is an interesting illustration of the power of expansion to the elder ones. And here is how to do the act of popping with the greatest success:

Discard the old-fashioned corn-popper and use a deep iron kettle. The fire must be a very hot one, whether the fuel be gas, fine dry wood or coals. Have ready the shelled corn, which has been freed from chaff by pouring from one pan to another so that the chaff is blown away by the air. Place the kettle over the fire and put in half a cup of lard and about half a teaspoonful of salt. When the lard is melted put in two cupfuls of corn and stir briskly until it begins to pop; then cover the kettle, shaking it by the bail to prevent burning the corn. When the popping has somewhat subsided, remove the cover and stir with a long-handled spoon until all is popped. Turn quickly into a pan, as there is danger of scorching if left in the kettle. This quantity should make at least a heaping milk pan full after it is popped.

His Desire.

(Here is how a man advertises for a wife, ostensibly. Presumably it is a clever woman's fine sarcasm):

Wanted: a wife who can handle a broom,
To brush down the cobwebs and sweep up the room.
To make decent bread that a fellow can eat
Not the horrible compound we everywhere meet.
Who knows how to boil, to fry, and to roast.
Make a cup of good tea, and a platter of toast.
A woman who washes, cooks, irons and sews,
And mends all the rips in a fellow's old clothes,
And makes her own garments—an item that grows
Quite highly expensive, as everyone knows;
A common-sense creature, and still with a mind.
To teach and to guide—exalted, refined,—
A sort of an angel and housewife combined.

CHAT.

Helen Hilliers' name is entered on the roll, duly certified, and she is assured of the privilege of speaking her mind. The good-natured Chief of the Hive has never called the Household to order yet, though it is mostly certain he doesn't subscribe to all our screeds. This is one of the glories of our department; the freedom and independence that are vouchsafed us.

They are ahead of us in the pretty town of Aylmer, Ontario, in that their kindergarten is a part of the public school system. In Toledo, and one or two other cities, the manual training school is a part of the public system, and the kindergarten is sure to be, in time. Now we have these excellent schools for little ones, but they are private and tuitional. We have a vague remembrance of the honors of the Centennial exhibition at Philadelphia, in some lines, being borne away by the Ontario schools. We might assure L. C. H. that we'uns use paper wheels on our heavy railway cars, and she may remember we have light and durable paper water buckets. The nice young man and his girl need have no fear.

Practical Illustration.

Mr. Frederic Harrison's recent utterance on "The Emancipation of Women" has called forth a reply in the Fortnightly Review from Mrs. Henry Fawcett. That lady seems to be sufficiently emancipated from any intellectual disabilities that may pertain to her sex to handle Mr. Harrison as roughly as any man in England might. She riddles his logic, makes shreds and patches of his facts and punches all manner of holes in his rhetoric, and she does it all without in the least "unsexing herself" by indulgence in any rudeness or discourtesy.—N. Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market firm and higher. Corn steady. Liverpool wheat firm and 1-2 pence higher. Corn firm.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 954,431 bu., compared with 624,203 bu. on the same day last year.

The papers of the day state that a cable from Beerbohm states that "corrected estimates of the world's wheat crop this year is 16,000,000 bus. more than last year. Rye 224,000,000 bus. less. The Russian wheat prohibition expected on or before Tuesday."

Beerbohm's London "Corn Trade List" of Nov. 7 says: "The Daily News' Odessa correspondent, telegraphing on Nov. 2, gives, indeed, a very deplorable account of the condition of the winter-sown crops, the recent rains having been neither sufficiently general nor plentiful. In Roumania, according to official reports, the drought in the spring has caused a serious failure of the maize crop in districts bordering on the Danube."

In Germany the weather on the whole has favored outdoor work; but the potato crop, which is now practically secured, is finally considered to be unsatisfactory both in quantity and quality. From Hungary the latest official report regarding the progress of the autumn sowings is very unfavorable, the start of the young wheat plant being decidedly unsatisfactory.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 459,648 bu. in excess of the corresponding Saturday in 1890.

The receipts of grain this week at eight principal western points are, wheat 7,090,000 bu.; corn 1,669,000 bu.; oats 2,602,000 bu. Previous week, wheat 7,767,000 bu.; corn 1,431,000 bu.; oats 2,437,000 bu. In the week corresponding to this in 1890, wheat 4,022,000 bu.; corn 928,000 bu.; oats 1,748,000 bu. and showing a gain in wheat of 3,068,000 bu. and in corn of 741,000 bu. and a gain in oats of 854,000 bu.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 466,586 bu of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 560,000 bu.

The exports from the same ports in the week were wheat, 2,602,000 bu; corn, 895,000 bu; oats, 414,000 bu. Previous week wheat, 1,916,000 bu; corn, 551,000 bu; oats, 250,000 bu.

Bradstreets reports the export of wheat from all United States ports on both coasts at 5,400,000 bu. Previous week 4,490,000 bu, and week before that 3,820,000 bu.

A Russian Exportation.

Once more it is positively asserted that the order prohibiting the exportation of wheat from Russia has been signed by the authorities. In this instance the information comes from and of course is indorsed by the Western Union Telegraph company, through their manager in New York, Mr. Dealey. It bears the semblance of truth more than the previous statements, and we are disposed to credit it. Supposing it to be authentic, what will be the effect? Very much less than if the decrease had been issued a month or six weeks earlier. Now, the present effect will be to add but little strength to markets abroad more than the annual winter closing of many Russian ports. Of course Odessa shipments, which continue more or less during the winter, will be stopped. Later on, when the markets are cleared of Russian and other stocks. Prices will surely be stronger. Our belief is that no immediate advance may occur in the west as the result of the fact that we are now just changing from a low water to a much higher rail cost of freight to the seaboard, which of course will affect values.

The Chicago board of trade are protesting against the discrimination in tolls on the Canadian canals against American vessels. Better late than never, but the fun is over for this year. Lake Erie vessel owners have been working at it all summer.

The Markets.

Ocean freight at New York has declined equal to 1c per bus., which has had a bracing effect on that market.

The Russian news, and decline in ocean freights and the nervousness of short sellers east and west, opened and closed New York wheat market at an advance of 3-4c for November and December. Corn for November is steady, and December 1-2c up. November oats steady and unchanged.

Corn closed unchanged for November. November oats 1-4c lower.

In Toledo.—There has been a moderately active business reported in wheat futures at improved prices. NO UNION LABOR.

The Iron Barons Have Issued the Decree.

War on the Amalgamated Association.

The Wage-Earners to be Placed Under the Screws,

So Employers Can Regain Campaign Money.

A Startling Statement Comes from the Headquarters of the Protected Interests of the Country, Which Must Cause the Workingmen to Think.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 21.—It is reported to-day that the iron and steel manufacturers of the United States will make a general assault on the Amalgamated association in the spring.

The skilled workmen in all the union mills belong to this association, and the annual wage scale for the United States is made in this city.

Preliminary skirmishes have already occurred, and in every instance the workmen were beaten.

The most recent was last week when ex-National Republican Chairman B. T. Jones succeeded in reducing the wages and increasing the hours of 1,500 laborers.

Park Bros., who own the Black Diamond Steel works, and William Clark's Sons, who operate the Solar Iron works, have successfully fought the Amalgamated association for years, and are now doing active proselyting.

Other recent victories for the manufacturers occurred at the Allegheny Bessemer Steel works of Andrew Carnegie at Duquesne and the Vesuvius Iron works at Sharpsburg, belonging to Moorehead Bros.

The latter is now completely non-union.

This week the Oliver & Roberts Wire company secured a reduction of 20 per cent.

A few days ago the Baker Wire company, at Joliet, Ill., dismissed its workmen, who had organized a lodge of the Amalgamated association.

This mill is included in the syndicate of which Oliver & Roberts are members. Some people do not believe the war is coming. Their sole argument is the protected iron barons' alleged fear of a conflict during the presidential year.

The board of directors of the American Tin Plate association in this city has signed the Amalgamated wage scale. Niedringhaus, of St. Louis, alone opposed it.

RAIDED A SEMINARY.

Thieves Make a Rich Haul in New York.

Daughters of Many Rich People Made to Pay Tribute to the Dark Lantern Knights.

Rye, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The Rye Female seminary at this place was entered by sneak thieves Thursday night and money and jewelry to the value of about $1,500 were stolen.

The institution numbers among its pupils the daughters of the wealthiest families in the country. The daughter of Wm. Rockefeller, the millionaire, is a pupil, and her father some time ago purchased a pond in the vicinity for the use of the pupils and teachers for boating and other pastimes.

The robbery last evening occurred while the pupils were at dinner. After dinner the discovery was made that seven of the rooms had been ransacked.

Mrs. Life, the principal, refused to give the names of the 10 young ladies robbed, but admitted that the thieves had carried off 10 gold watches, one of which was studded with diamonds; six finger rings, including two diamond rings; brooches, bracelets and several purses containing various sums of money.

A VERDICT FOR $7,000

Rendered Against Mr. J. B. Ketcham in the Brown Suit.

The jury in the case of Brown against Ketcham to-day returned a verdict for the plaintiff, fixing the damages at $7,000.

This was an action brought by Wm. O. Brown, jr., against John B. Ketcham, 2d, to recover $75,000 damages for alleged false arrest. The petition located the charges about the time that the Ketcham bank had Ed Spear arrested for obtaining money on false checks; that Mr. Ketcham called Brown an associate of thieves, which it says occurred in a public place. Also that Ketcham ordered Brown's arrest for being an accomplice of Spear. He was arrested, taken to the police station and searched and his office safe searched for money which Spear obtained.

The defense set up that Brown was not under arrest, neither was he suspected or charged with being an abettor of Spear's.

NEURALGIA---RHEUMATISM.

Do Not Suffer from Them Longer.

Half the world suffers from pains and aches when there is not the slightest reason for so doing.

"I had neuralgia and rheumatism in my back and side," said Mr. James Bown of 28 Market Street, New York. "So badly did I suffer that I was unable to attend to business for three years before I came across the right remedy to cure me. The remedy is DR. GREENE'S NERVURA. I have been perfectly and completely cured by this wonderful medicine."

"I had a pain in my right side for about four months," said Mrs. J. T. Cummings of 1303 Lorain St., Cleveland, Ohio, "and was nervous and could not sleep nights. Have doctored with the best doctors in this city and got no relief until I took DR. GREENE'S NERVURA. The pain has left me entirely and now I sleep much better. I have told several of my friends about it and they tried it and speak very highly of it. I tell this hoping it will do others as much good as it did me."

"I suffered," said Alonzo Pachin, Esq., of Boiceville, Ulster Co., N. Y., "with a terrible neuralgia in my head and neck. I took DR. GREENE'S NERVURA and it cured me completely of the awful pain. I think DR. GREENE'S NERVURA is the best medicine I ever saw or used."

It is purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists sell it for $1.00.

N. B.—Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 W. 14th Street, New York, can be consulted free, personally, or by letter. Call or write him about your case, or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

Kate B. Sherwood,

Past National President of the Woman's Relief Corps, states:

"Having contracted a severe bronchial trouble while in the White Mountains, I have since been subject to frequent attacks. I can truly say that I have experienced more prompt, pleasant and enduring relief from the use of DAY'S BRONCHIAL CURE than any other, and most cordially recommend it to all suffering from similar affection."

Contains neither opium nor alcohol. For sale by druggists.
